DISTINGUISHED GENTLEMEN gave a dinner to General Pershing in New York last night. It was a nice dinner. General Pershing's share must have cost sixty cents in the market and nine dollars delivered on the table.

As a dinner it was a success. But as a reward for a general that commanded three million American soldiers in a big war, after serving faithfully for many years before that, it was not much. General Pershing is now retired on a salary big enough to get him a small flat in a cheap quarter.

The English do it differently. The imperial government made their General Haig an earl and gave him a million dollars.

Of course, this country isn't rich enough to afford anything like THAT, but it might do SOMETHING.

YOU GET the news from Maine with a bang. You were told here yesterday that the vote for Senator forecasts the vote for President. The Republican Senator won by more than 50,000, according to the latest reports.

FOUR YEARS AGO, on September 13, you read in your morning paper: "Republicans sweep Maine by 64,000. The largest previous plurality was about 48,000, given to the Republican gubernatorial nominee in 1896."

You also read four years ago the statement by Senator Harding, then running as Coolidge is running today, that the result in Maine made Republican victory certain.

It turned out that Harding was even more right than he thought he was. He won with seven million votes to spare.

THE KU KLUX KLAN will probably hold cheerful "klonklaves" to celebrate the Maine election. The Democrat so badly beaten there for Governor in Maine is Pattangall, the stout gentleman that got up in the Democratic convention and denounced the Klan, calling it by name most plainly, after the Democratic platform had refused to do so.

THOMAS A. EDISON comes out for Coolidge. He says he will vote for him on account of his "hard sense."

Edison, who isn't young, has important things to finish. He believes that Coolidge's election will allow things to run along smoothly, and keep business going.

Edison says, "Coolidge was born in an economic environment, and economics and hard sense were born in him."

IN NEW YORK last night Tammany Hall held eighty-seven meetings "to advance the candidacy of John W. Davis." It would be unfair to Mr. Davis not to let him know that many Tammany statesmen called those meetings with their fingers crossed. A man running for office wants real news. The real news from Tammany is that there will be a terrifically big vote for La Follette.

COOLIDGE'S FRIENDS tell him to aim his fighting hereafter at La Follette and forget about Mr. Davis.

WHEN YOU READ how Jacques Coeur lent the French King, Charles VII, money to build his fleet, or read of the wide transactions of the Medici family 500 years ago, you get an early glimpse of the rising power of money.

BUT THAT fades away in our day when a casual little wire from Paris says that J. Pierpont Morgan has offered to renew the loan of $100,000,000 to the Bank of France. One hundred million dollars is just one little battalion in the dollar army of the modern American financier. That sum would have been enough to buy Jacques Coeur and all the Medici.

YOU HAVE ALWAYS known about "an old fool." Thou-

LIFE IMPRISONMENT FOR BOY SLAYERS

GEM THEFT ROUSES WALES

Lady Mountbatten's Jewels, With Hundreds of Thousands, Missing

New York, Sept. 10.—Jewelry valued at $250,000 was stolen from the home of J. S. Cosden, wealthy oil man and race horse owner, at Sands Point, Long Island, on Monday night, it was announced today by detectives.

Some of the gems belonged to Lord and Lady Mountbatten, who accompanied the Prince of Wales to this country and who were guests at the Cosden home.

The jewels, totalling in value several hundred thousand dollars, are said to have been stolen from the home of J. S. Cosden, wealthy oil man of Sands Point, N. Y., where Lord and Lady Mountbatten were guests.

Mrs. Richard Norton, another member of the Prince's party, also lost some jewels.

The robbery was committed by a sneak thief who entered the rooms of Mrs. Cosden, Lady Mountbatten and Mrs. Norton while they were away Monday night, officials of the company said. Most of the jewels, they added, had been left on bureaus and dressing tables by the three women. Mrs. Cosden's loss was placed at about $40,000.

Another report today is that the Prince has heard the call of duty and will not take his much-heralded trip to his Alberta ranch at the conclusion of the polo series.

TAGUE TO RUN FOR CONGRESS

Will Oppose Douglass as Independent in Tenth District

Friends of Congressman Peter F. Tague of Charlestown, who was defeated for renomination in the primaries, declared today he would run as an independent at the November election. Tague said:

"I am won out as a result of my strenuous campaign, and I am not going to do anything, even make a statement, until I get my health back. I am proud of the way I have served my district and that is enough."

His friends insisted the congressman would refuse to accept the results of the primaries and would demand a recount as did Senator Thomas H. Green, his opponent in 1922.

Green who was Martin M. Lomasney's candidate for the Congressional nomination from the Tenth district two years ago as was John J. Douglass this year, protested the election.

Green filed charges with the Secretary of State against Congressman Tague and a recount was held which resulted in the confirmation of Tague's nomination by 1131 votes.

Here is the vote by wards of the tenth Congressional district:

Ward	Douglass	Tague
1	2014	3167
2	2251	3083
3	1651	2911
4	1441	2620
5	1274	1920
6	1309	1732

Streets, cellars and farms were flooded, pavements undermined, trees felled and street car, elevated and steam traffic delayed.

Commuters found themselves forced to wade in water above their shoe-tops to board cars and trains, as streets in some of the suburbs were transformed into rivers.

Pedestrians found it impossible to cross streets and squares in some localities.

AGE SAVES LOEB AND LEOPOLD

Chicago, Sept. 10. (A. P.)—Sentences of life imprisonment for the murder of 14-year-old Robert Franks and ninety-nine years imprisonment for kidnaping the boy, were meted out today to Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb by Judge John R. Caverly. The youth of the defendants, 18 and 19 years, was all that saved them from the noose.

"It would have been the path of least resistance to impose the extreme penalty of the law," said the grey-haired judge in his decision. "In choosing imprisonment instead of death the courts moved chiefly by the age of the defendants, boys of 18 and 19 years.

"It is not for the court to say that he will not in any case enforce capital punishment, but he believes it is within his province to decline to impose the sentence of death on persons who are not of full age."

"This determination appears to be in accordance with the progress of criminal law all over the world and to the dictates of enlightened humanity.

"More than that, it seems to be in accordance with the precedents in this State. The records of Illinois show only two cases of minors who were put to death by legal process to which number the court does not feel inclined to make an addition."

SEVERER FORM

Judge Caverly added that while life imprisonment "may not strike the public imagination as forcibly as would hanging," yet "to the offenders, particularly the type they are, the prolonged suffering of years of confinement may well be the severer form of retribution and expiation."

He pointed out that under the Soviet law it was within the discretion of the department of public

"I want no one, not even newspapermen, to follow me when I leave this courtroom. Anyone will be arrested who does so, and even more serious consequences might be the result.

"I shall go immediately to a hotel and leave town late today for destination I do not want made public."

LOEB AND LEOPOLD GIVEN LIFE IN PRISON FOR SLAYING BOY

ONLY THEIR YOUTH SAVED THEM FROM GALLOWS, JUDGE SAYS

welfare never to admit these defendants to parole, and that "if this course is persevered in, the punishment will satisfy the ends of justice and safeguard the interests of society.

Not a muscle moved in Leopold's face as Judge Caverly indicated life imprisonment was his fate. Loeb rapidly blinked his eyelids, gulped almost unnoticeably and slightly contracted his lips. Not a portion of their bodies moved.

As Judge Caverly read the two boys gave him a very studied and unexpressive inspection. Loeb, with his hands resting on his legs, and Leopold with his hands crossed, head slightly inclined, scarcely moved.

HURRY AWAY

Leopold and Loeb were quickly on their feet when court had been adjourned. Leopold, by his own momentum, and the thrust of his bailiff, almost shoved through the crowd on route back to his cell before Loeb had been started. Loeb took a few seconds to gulp Darrow's arm and pressed his lips in an evident control of emotion.

"That finishes my connection with this case," said Clarence S. Darrow, veteran chief defence counsel, whose plea on behalf of youth overcame the State's insistence on the death penalty.

The decision was read and sentence pronounced while the defendants remained seated. They were not called to the bar as is customary in such cases nor was the usual formula—have anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced against you—gone through with.

The entire procedure took less than ten minutes and twenty minutes after the case was called the court room was emptied. More than a score of persons—bailiffs, photographers and newspapermen—remained clustered about the bench so that it was hardly possible for even the defendants to see the judge. He read rapidly and clearly but his words were almost lost in the shuffle in the courtroom.

CROWE DISSATISFIED

Immediately after the verdict was pronounced, States Attorney Robert E. Crowe issued this statement:

"When the State attorney accepted the defendants, solved what was a mystery and by the thoroughness of his preparation compelled the defendants to plead guilty, presented a mountain of evidence to the court and made his argument, his duty was fully performed.

"He is in no measure responsible for the decision of the court. The responsibility for that decision rests with the judge alone.

"Like all other law abiding citizens, when the court pronounces his decision, I must be content with it because his decision in this case is final.

"While I do not intend and have no desire to criticise the decision of the court, I still believe that the death penalty is the only penalty feared by murderers."

NO APPEAL

"It was all we could have asked for," said Clarence S. Darrow, chief defense counsel. "There will be no appeal."

In the midst of conflicting reports, Sheriff Hoffman definitely announced that Leopold and Loeb would be taken to Joliet penitentiary within an hour after sentence was passed.

An immense crowd gathered about the entrance of the Cook County jail when the decision became known. A score of motorcycle policemen, lined up on both sides of the street, held the people in check.

The jail itself is quiet and appears stood about, watching the jail doors, manned silent, although he relaxed visibly after sentence was passed.

The Loebs and Leopolds watched anxiously as Nathan, Jr., and Richard were pushed quickly back to the elevator to be returned to their cells. Then, as the courtroom emptied rapidly, Jacob Loeb interrupted an interview with newspapermen, saying "Oh, Clarence, they are waiting for you."

Leopold, Sr., had recovered his composure, opened his cigar case and passed cigars to the members of the group as they filed from the room.

Edwin Gresham, uncle of the child murder victim, the only members of the Franks family in the courtroom, refused to comment on the sentence. He shook his head in a refusal, when asked for the Franks family's acceptance of the sentences as justice for the murder of Bobby.

Darrow was commenting on the possibilities of paroles when Jacob Loeb interrupted. The defense counsel chief said paroles could be applied for after twenty years of life sentences had been served, but thought that it required 37½ years of imprisonment before paroles could be applied for under a sentence of 99 years in the penitentiary.

SLEPT WELL

The two youthful defendants arose at 6:30 a. m., after a night of unbroken slumber. They ate heartily of a breakfast consisting of eggs, toast, sausage and coffee. Several sticks of chewing gum were on the food tray.

"I'm glad the strain of the trial is over for today," Loeb told a jail attendant.

Jail attendaches said that if they had not known this was the day on which the prisoners were to be sentenced, they would be nothing in the action of the boys to indicate the pending proceedings.

Both Nathan and Leopold were calm and outwardly undisturbed at 8 o'clock, the hour at which the watch in the jail was changed.

Streets surrounding the Criminal Courts' building were virtually deserted shortly before 8 o'clock, the only visible signs of activity being the silent patrol of policemen at intervals of about a hundred feet in each of the four blocks forming the square in which the court building and County Jail are located.

The entrance to the courts building was guarded by a squad of detectives, each member of which closely watched every person entering the building. Credentials necessary to pass each sentinel in the street leading to the entrance were carefully inspected. No loiterers or prospective spectators were before the building at this time.

CHALLENGES

Passing the first barrier, the person seeking the court room on the fifth floor was challenged at three times before finally gaining admission. Bailiffs and deputy sheriffs formed a living line on both sides of the lobby on the lower floor.

Through this gauntlet, whether seeking the elevators or the open stairway, the credentials again were read. The elevator operator again asked for passes. If the stairs were taken upward two burly guards made the same request.

All elevators stopped at the fifth floor where again a squad of detectives, bailiffs and deputy sheriffs commanded the narrow stairway to the sixth floor.

On all stairways, on each floor and in almost every nook and corner in the rambling structure, from one to four representatives of the law were stationed. Extreme quiet prevailed.

The criminal courts building is located in one of the busiest wholesale and manufacturing districts of the city, which made the traffic problem more difficult to handle.

Everyone was kept moving. Four mounted officers at each intersection of the streets on the south side of the building were almost continually waving heavy trucks, push carts and horse-drawn vehicles into action. Passersby, regardless of their destination, were ordered to keep moving by the knots of policemen, whose members in the meantime had been considerably strengthened.

JUDGE GUARDED

Judge Caverly, piloted by a large force of motor policemen and guarded on all sides by mounted officers, reached the Criminal Courts Building about twenty minutes of nine.

No untoward incident was reported on the Judge's trip downtown from his house. A battery of cameras flanished the only noteworthy reception to the Judge as he alighted from the car, in which a squad of Secret Service men and operatives were riding.

Important Dates in Case of Leopold and Loeb

May 21, 1924, Robert Franks was lured into an automobile and killed.

May 22 his body was found in a railroad culvert in the outskirts of Chicago.

May 29 Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb were taken into custody in connection with the murder.

May 31 both youths made separate confessions, admitting they killed young Franks for the "experience."

July 21 both pleaded guilty when arraigned before Chief Justice Caverly of the Criminal Court, waving their right to a jury trial.

July 23 Chief Justice Caverly began hearing evidence for and against the mitigation of the penalty, which resulted in today's decision.

August 28 Judge Caverly takes kidnaping and murder charges under advisement for decision later.

September 10 sentenced to life imprisonment for the crime by Chief Justice Caverly.

"I do not regard it as a victory except a victory for justice," said Benjamin Bachrach of defense counsel, as he shook off those who offered congratulations on the youths' escape from the noose. "Do not congratulate me personally."

After sentence had been pronounced, Nathan F. Leopold, Sr., father of one of the defendants, who sat with head bowed while the judge read his opinion, said that he would never attempt to obtain the release of his son from the penitentiary. When asked if that was his attitude, he replied emphatically, "Surely, surely."

Foreman Leopold, Nathan's older brother, relaxed visibly as the judge reached the end of his statement which meant life imprisonment for the youths. He had sat with tense face as the judge read from his manuscript.

He declined to comment and merely smiled as friends crowded about and spoke to the members of the Loeb-Leopold group.

RELATIVES RELIEVED

Allan Loeb, athlete brother of Richard, beamed smiles, but said nothing. Jacob Loeb, uncle of Richard, and Sidney Reed of Chicago's Public School Board, remained silent, although he relaxed

KILLING OF BOY WAS SHOCKING CRIME

Details as Revealed by Confession of Loeb and Leopold

Amazed Entire Country

At ten o'clock on the night of May 21, 1924, Jacob Franks, millionaire retired pawnbroker and real estate investor, sat in the library of his palatial home in the Hyde Park section of Chicago.

With him were his wife and attorney, Samuel A. Ettleston, former corporation counsel for the city.

The Franks were speculating uneasily on the unusual tardiness of their thirteen-year-old son, Robert, who had failed to return from the exclusive Harvard School, in which he was a student, a few blocks away.

Suddenly the telephone bell shrilled out a summons. Mr. Franks answered, listened for a minute or two, cried out inarticulately and fell on the floor in a faint.

On being revived she transformed her hysteria unconscious into grief by announcing a man who called himself Johnson had said Robert was kidnaped and held for ransom.

Mr. Franks, recovering a warning against attempting to trace the call, the man had said the Franks would be notified the following day as to what they must do in order to get their boy back.

No more calls having been received up to 2 o'clock the next morning, Mr. Franks and the lawyer went to the police headquarters and told their story. Fearful of what the kidnapers might do, the anguished father insisted on secrecy, as no report was left for the day force.

DEMAND FOR $10,000

At nine a. m. of the same day a letter sent by special delivery and mailed somewhere in Chicago at 2 a. m., was received at the Franks home. A typewritten note, signed "George Johnson," stated the boy was safe, but if the police were informed he would be killed.

The note stated $10,000 ransom was required. Instructions were given to make up the sum in worn bills of specified denominations, and place them in a cigar box which was to be wrapped and sealed.

Mr. Franks was told he would receive a telephone call at 1 p. m., giving further instructions as to how the money was to be delivered.

With the money prepared as ordered, Mr. Franks waited with as much patience as he could until 1 o'clock, when the promised phone call was made. Answering, he was told to go in a drug store, No. 1465 East Sixty-third street, where further instructions would be awaiting him.

Had Mr. Franks complied with the directions, he would have been led on a long and intricate course, designed to place the money in the hands of the kidnapers without police interference.

While on his way to the drug store, however, something occurred which prevented the harrowed father from being further deluded, although it changed his uncertainty into crushing grief.

DISCOVERY OF BODY

About 9:30 that morning, Tony Minke, a laborer, walking along the right of way of the Pennsylvania Railroad at 118th street, in the outskirts of Chicago, saw something white protruding from a culvert. He investigated and discovered Robert Franks' nude body of a boy.

The coroner and police were called and began an investigation which eventually revealed one of the most shocking crimes in the criminal history of this country.

The body bore several wounds on the head and the face and lips were stained with brown, as though a fluid of some kind had been smeared over them.

The only possible clues to be found were a single woolen stocking and a pair of shell-rimmed spectacles. The spectacles were placed on the dead boy's face by an undertaker's assistant, and for a time were ignored.

On such small matters hang life or death, for it eventually transpired that those same spectacles were the means of bringing to the bar of justice the murderers of Robert Franks.

The afternoon papers carried the story and the body was identified by the boy's uncle. An autopsy revealed that Robert had probably been slain before the first demand was made on his parents.

RUNNING DOWN CLEWS

That night several arrests were made, but it was not until the following day that the glasses began to come into the attention they deserved. It was found Robert Franks had never worn spectacles, and an effort was made to trace the places where they were manufactured and sold.

In the meantime an expert who examined the ransom note declared it was written on a portable machine of a certain make, built prior to 1914. A search conducted for such a machine was unsuccessful.

Then the object wrapped with tape was picked up near the Harvard School and a few bricks found near the culvert proved to have been taken from a building under construction in Hyde Park. Apparently the murderer had struck the boy over the head during the seizure, had decided to sink the body and later ordered the culvert as a hiding place.

On Saturday the police received a note written on the same typewriter as the ransom machine, stating the writer was the murderer of the Franks boy, and that he intended to commit suicide. The next day, Sunday, a floral wreath bearing the condolences of "George Johnson" was received at the Franks home.

ARREST OF STUDENTS

During these days the effort to trace the glasses had been going on, and finally met with success. Their manufacturer, an optical company in Brooklyn, furnished the name of the Chicago distributor, who in turn went over thousands of prescriptions until the correct one was found.

This revealed the oculist who had ordered the glasses and his records in turn furnished the name and address of the patient.

As a result two arrests were made that stunned Chicago and the entire Loeb-Leopold family and nineteen respectively.

Both were counted the youngest, most brilliant and most promising graduates of their respective universities, Chicago and Michigan. Both were post graduate students at the University of Chicago. Both had attended the Harvard School. Leopold had taken an examination for a special course in Harvard University.

Both were sons of leading Jewish families [illegible] of Chicago. Leopold's father [illegible] been for many years a [illegible]ge figure in lake transportation and was rated many times a millionaire. Albert H. Loeb father of the other boy, was vice president of the great mail order house of Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Full Text of Judge Caverly's Decision in Franks Case

Chicago, Sept. 10 (AP).—The text of Judge John R. Caverly's decision in the Franks case follows:

"In view of the profound and unusual interest that this case has created, not only in this community but in the entire country and even beyond its boundaries, the court feels it his duty to state the reasons which have led him to the determination he has reached.

"It is not an uncommon thing that pleas of guilty are entered in criminal cases, but almost without exception in the past, such pleas have been the result of a virtual agreement between the defendant and the State's attorney, whereby, in consideration of the plea, the State's attorney consent to recommend to the court a sentence deemed appropriate by him, and, in the absence of special reasons to the contrary, it is the practice of the court to follow such recommendations.

"In the present case, the situation is a different one. A plea of guilty has been entered by the defendants without a previous understanding with the prosecution and without any recommendation on its part.

"Moreover, the plea of guilty did not in this particular case, as it usually does, render the task of the prosecution easier by making unnecessary the admission of guilt for a possibly difficult and uncertain chain of proof.

PRIMA FACIE CASE.

"Here the State was in possession not only of the essential, if not controlling facts, but also of voluntary confessions on the part of the defendants. The pleas of guilty, therefore does not make a special case in favor of the defendants.

"Since both of the cases, that namely of murder, and that of kidnaping for ransom, were of a character which inested the court with discretion as to the extent of the punishment, it became his duty under the statute to examine both as to the aggravation and mitigation of the offence.

"This duty has been fully met. By the consent of counsel for the State and for the defendants, the testimony in the murder case has been accepted as equally applicable to the case of kidnaping for ransom. In addition, a prima facie case was made out for the kidnaping case as well.

"The testimony produced, both by the prosecution and the defence, has been as detailed and elaborate, although the case had been tried before a jury, it has been given the widest publicity, and the public is so fully familiar with all its phases that it would serve no useful purpose to restate or analyze the evidence.

BOYS WERE ABNORMAL.

"By pleading guilty the defendants have admitted legal responsibility for their acts; the testimony has satisfied the court that the case of neither one is such as would have been possible to set up successfully the defence of insanity, as insanity is defined and understood by the established law of the State for the purpose of the administration of criminal justice.

"The court, however, feels impelled to dwell briefly on the mass of data produced as to the physical, mental and moral condition of the two defendants.

They have been shown in essential respects to be abnormal; had they been normal, they would not have committed the crime. It is beyond the province of this court, as it is beyond the capacity of human science in its present state of development, to predicate ultimate responsibility for human acts.

"At the same time, the court is entirely convinced that the careful analysis made of the life history of the defendants and of their mental, emotional and ethical condition, has been of scientific interest and is a valuable contribution to criminology. And yet the court feels strongly that similar analysis made of other persons accused of crime, would probably reveal similar or different abnormalities.

ATROCIOUS CRIME.

"The value of such tests seem to us to have no relation to crime and criminals in general. Since they concern the broad questions of human responsibility and legal punishment, and are in no wise peculiar to these individual defendants, they may be deserving of legislative but not of judicial consideration. For this reason the court is satisfied that his judgment in the present case cannot be affected thereby.

"The testimony in this case reveals a crime of singular atrocity. It is, in a sense, inexplicable, but it is not thereby rendered less inhuman or repulsive. It was deliberately planned and prepared for during a considerable period of time. It was executed with every feature of callousness and cruelty.

"And here the court will say, not for the purpose of extenuating guilt, but merely with the object of dispelling a misapprehension that appears to have found lodgment in the public mind, that he is convinced by conclusive evidence that there was no abuse offered to the body of the victim.

"But it did not need that element to make the crime abhorrent to any instinct of humanity, and the court is satisfied that neither in the act itself, nor in its motive or lack of motive, nor in the antecedents of the offenders, can be find any mitigating circumstances.

QUOTES STATUTES.

"For both the crimes of murder and of kidnaping for ransom the law prescribed different punishments in the alternatives.

"For the crime of murder, the statute declares:

"'Whoever is guilty of murder shall suffer the punishment of death or imprisonment in the penitentiary for his natural life, or for a term not less than fourteen years.'

"If the accused is found guilty by a jury it shall be for the punishment by their verdict; upon a plea of guilty, the punishment shall be fixed by the court.

"For the crime of kidnaping for ransom, the statute reads:

"'Whoever is guilty of kidnaping for ransom shall suffer death, or be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for life or any term not less than one year.'

"Under the plea of guilty the duty of determining the punishment devolves upon the court and the law imparts no rule or policy for the guidance of his discretion.

MOVED BY THEIR YOUTH.

"In reaching his decision the court would have welcomed the counsel and support of others. In some states the legislature in its wisdom has provided for a bench of three judges to determine the penalty in cases such as this.

"Nevertheless, the court is willing to meet his responsibilities. It would have been the path of least resistance to impose the extreme penalty of the law. In choosing imprisonment instead of death, the court is moved chiefly by the consideration of the age of the defendants, boys of 18 and 19 years.

"It is not for the court to say that he will not in any case enforce capital punishment as an alternative, but the court believes that it is within his province to decline to impose the sentence of death on persons who are not of full age.

"This determination appears to be in accordance with the progress of criminal law all over the world and with the [illegible] of humanity. More than that, it seems to be in accordance with the precedents hitherto observed in this state.

"The records of Illinois show only two cases of minors who were put to death by legal process,—to which number the court does not feel inclined to make an addition.

SEVERER FORM.

"Life imprisonment may not, at the moment, strike the public imagination as forcibly as would death by hanging, but for the offenders, particularly of the type they are, the prolonged suffering of years of confinement may well be the severer form of retribution and expiation.

"The court feels it proper to add a final word concerning the effect which the law puts upon the punishment of these defendants. In the case of such atrocious crimes, it is entirely within the discretion of the Department of Public Welfare never to admit these defendants to parole.

"To such a policy, the court urges them strictly to adhere. If this course is persevered in, the punishment of these defendants will both satisfy the ends of justice and safeguard the interests of society.

"If there sentence you, Nathan F. Leopold Jr., to the State penitentiary at Joliet, for the remainder of your natural life for the crime of murder and to the same penitentiary for 99 years for the crime of kidnaping for ransom."

"And I sentence you, Richard A. Loeb to the State penitentiary at Joliet for the remainder of your natural life for the crime of murder and to the same penitentiary for 99 years for the crime of kidnaping for ransom."

'DEFENSE DAY' PLANS FOR HUB COMPLETED

Fifty Organizations to Be Represented in Demonstration Here

Boston and the rest of New England will take an active part in the observance of National Defense Day, which is Friday.

In Boston there will be a formal military parade, in the evening, a review of troops on the athletic field on the Common, and a mobilization of all regulars, National Guardsmen and reservists.

Major-General Andre W. Brewster, commander of the first army corps area, is in command of the observance in this section.

Fifty military organizations will be represented in the troops on parade, and representatives of twenty-four social, civic and patriotic organizations will be with the reviewing party.

Selection of points or organization has been left to unit commanders. But all have been assigned a definite place in line and a time at which to come into position on the Common.

The Thirteenth U. S. Infantry will be the first in position, at 6:30, and the local members of the C. M. T. C. will fall in behind it. They will take their place in line on the Common at 6:55.

Infantry regiments will be massed in columns, special troops in companies.

Brigadier General R. K. Hale, Brigadier General F. P. Poole, Colonel R. B. Shedd, Colonel Leland F. Fish and the commander of the nineteenth infantry will be in direct command of the men.

The Thirteenth Infantry band, the U. S. Navy band and the coast artillery corps band will play.

On dismissal, all the troops will leave the Common by the Beacon street gate.

Throughout New England National Guard units are to be assembled in armories some time Friday. No extensive field operations will be attempted for economic reasons.

Reservists will report to superiors named in various parts of the New England States. For the regular army men, the day will be much as other days.

Brigadier-General Jesse F. Stevens, Major-General Edward L. Logan, Brigadier-General Richard K. Hale, Alfred F. Foster and Thomas F. Doyle are the committee in charge of Massachusetts observance of National Defense Day.

Means, Klan endorsee, had a lead of more than 2000 votes over his nearest opponent, Charles W. Waterman of Denver, upon returns from 588 precincts.

After an address in Madison Square Garden Thursday night, September 18, Mr. LaFollette will return to Washington. By the end of the month he expects to start out on a speaking tour which may take him to the Pacific coast. The Wisconsin Senator intends to make use of the radio for broadcasts of brief campaign speeches.

TEXTILE WORKERS MAY FIGHT R. I. WAGE CUT

New York, Sept. 10.—Whether the United Textile Workers of America will oppose the 10 per cent. wage reduction recently announced by the Manville-Jenckes Company, Rhode Island textile manufacturers, and whether the organization will endorse the La Follette-Wheeler ticket, were questions on the agenda of the union's convention that opened today. Thomas McMahon, international president, said resolutions covering the two questions probably would come up tomorrow.

CHARLES GARLAND VANISHES AS FREE LOVE BUBBLE BURSTS

FLEES TO 'WIDE OPEN SPACES'

But Before He Goes He Gives North Carver Place to Youth

By HAROLD R. HALL

Charles Garland's free "love bubble" has burst!

His dreams of establishing a colony of free loving, free thinking barefooted male and female "philosophers" down on April Farm at North Carver have had a rude awakening.

This eccentric young millionaire, descendant of King Henry the Eighth, who refused to accept the millions left him by his father, and who upset the social scheme of his life in his own set by taking a "love mate" to his little hovel while his wife and baby lived in luxury at Dedham, has given his farm away, and has gone "out West."

Charles Garland has left North Carver and April Farm forever. He is never going to look upon the acres he cleared in the woods again. He has given the farm to a young man who lived with him for some time before he decided to quit.

The young man, who refuses to divulge his name, is living on the farm with his young wife and three-year-old daughter. What he is doing beside just plain "living" is a mystery, for the place has gone practically to ruin from neglect.

PLAN FLIVVERED

Garland, according to his own statements, did a lot of "thinking" down at April Farm. He tried to puzzle out the problems that have faced the world ever since time began.

However, Garland did a lot more than mere thinking. He was a hard worker. He went into practically a wilderness and in the short time he was there cleared up about thirty acres of land.

Today you would hardly know the farm. It is a typical deserted New England farm such as one sees here and there through the mountainous sections of the country.

And the famous "chicken coop." That was a long, low structure built by Garland originally to house feathered chickens. Later when his female "philosophers" arrived in large numbers he remodelled it and made it into a house for the girls.

GONE "OUT WEST"

Even Garland's cow has gone from the farm. The little field of hay which Garland used to cut and store for Winter fodder for the cow has been allowed to grow up and go to seed. It is now a tangled mass.

The tractor which Garland used to plow his fields is stored in his little barn and is covered with rust.

Of Garland, the young man who has taken over the farm says all he can say about him is that he has gone "out West." Last Winter he and the girl who was known as Bettina, left the farm and went South where they joined the Klaus Co-operative Colony of Leesville, La.

They stayed there during the Winter, but left when the birds started North this Spring.

Whether or not Bettina is still with Garland the young man of the Garland farm does not know.

"Garland has given up the idea of staying here. He is fone forever. He will never return. He has given me the place. I am going to stay here with my wife and baby. Who I am does not matter. I will not tell my name. You see I have some conventional friends in Boston. It would only shock them if they knew I were here.

Here the young man smiled, took his youngster by the hand and disappeared into the little shack that Garland used as his own home when he was there. It is the original farm house on the place.

emined to see at least two of the three games, since that was one of the chief purposes of his visit.

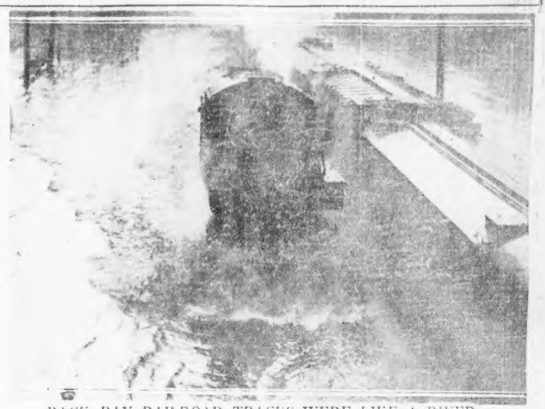
The Prince played another polo game today at the J. S. Phipps field in Westbury, his injured eye having almost entirely recovered.

The Prince has been deluged with gifts of almost every conceivable variety. Firms and individuals have sent him walking sticks, cigars, cigarettes, neckties, belts, paper knives and small pieces of statuary. Half a dozen such presents arrive daily, but inasmuch as the Prince has a rigid rule of never accepting presents from persons with whom he is not acquainted, all such gifts are promptly sent back by registered mail.

ALL METHODS OF TRANSPORTATION FORCED TO BATTLE FLOODS

A NEW SEA-IN COLUMBUS AVENUE AT ROXBURY CROSSING

Water nearly a foot deep made it impossible for people to cross the avenue, which was flooded for several hundred feet. Trolley cars and automobiles splashed through under the usual difficulties, while pedestrians sought higher ground.



BACK BAY RAILROAD TRACKS WERE LIKE A RIVER

Looking into the railroad cut from the bridge at Berkeley street, where the cut below the street level became a good sized river. Engineers plowed along, the greatest bother being to the automatic signal system. Never before has water been so deep over the tracks.

HEAVY RAINFALL TIES UP TRAFFIC IN BOSTON

on an inward-bound elevated train which was stalled for twenty minutes as a result of the storm in Charlestown.

The cars were packed solidly as a result of tie-ups in traffic all along the line. The windows were closed.

Suffering from lack of fresh air, women cried hysterically and the passengers were on the verge of panic when someone smashed a window to gain air for a woman who had collapsed. Others followed suit.

MORE THAN FOUR INCHES

For the second time in two weeks, a rainfall of more than four inches was recorded at the weather bureau. This is an unprecedented occurrence, officials said. They pointed out that a fall of four inches within a short period is extraordinary, and past records do not show two such storms at close intervals.

A deficiency for the year in normal rainfall was wiped out. A "dry year" has become a normally wet year. The deficiency was more than 8 inches on August 25, when 4.37 inches fell.

Today's storm had added 4.03 inches to the total when the bureau issued its first report and was still going strong. Prospects were for a clearing before night.

In Somerville, Boston & Maine trains ploughed through water up to the height of the car steps and commuters at the stations found difficulty in boarding them. The pond in Somerville Park, at the beginning of the Fellsway, swelled until the entire park was a lake.

Trolley cars were delayed entering Forest Hills terminal by the wreck of a light delivery wagon on Hyde Park avenue. The pavement, undermined by the rain, sunk, and two wheels of the wagon slipped into a crevice, blocking the tracks.

SPOILS PAVING JOB.

The heavy rainstorm ruined the city's new paving job behind the Old State House on Devonshire street today.

The rain worked its way beneath the wooden blocks which have only been laid for two weeks, causing the surface to buckle. The blocks were covered with a protecting coat of sand which was washed away, letting the water seep through the pavement.

The repair of the damaged roadway, which was spoiled over an area of about 200 square feet, will entail big expense, officials of the city declared after viewing the destruction. Police roped off the street for the protection of pedestrians and motorists.

DELAYED 45 MINUTES.

Rain caused a short circuit which burned out a cable at the L terminal at Dudley street station and tied up traffic over the surface and Elevated lines for forty-five minutes. Trolley cars were routed into the city via Tremont and Berkeley streets until the damage was repaired at seven-thirty.

New Haven railroad trains were forced to plow their way through water a foot deep in the sector between Broadway and Berkeley streets near the Back Bay station. Inbound commuters said that the locomotives resembled fast motorboats as they swerved through the miniature lakes cutting the water and throwing up a roll on each side of the cowcatchers.

STREETS LIKE RIVERS.

Taxi-drivers, those nighthawks who dote on rainy weather, because it means business, nearly met their waterloo when they found the city streets in the South End running rivers. Some said it was the worst night they had seen in years.

In many communities, leaky roofs, the result of torrential downpour, drove tenement dwellers out of bed. Occupants of one tenement on Walnut place, Revere, sent in an emergency call to the fire department to come and mend the roof, but found the fire department wasn't in that business.

The rain began about nine o'clock in the evening and kept up steadily. It was featured with extra heavy downpours at intervals. City work employes of the public works department were out in force early, cleaning out the clogged sewers.

A tree was blown down in Blackstone Park, South End, opposite the Franklin Square House. Many bad floods were reported in cellars in Dorchester. Several of these were on Alexander street.

Catch-basins went out of commission and caused flooded streets at East Brookline and James streets, South End; Southern avenue and Darling street, Mattapan, and Woodrow avenue and Tucker street, Mattapan.

FARMERS HIT AGAIN.

Losses were reported by farmers at various places where gardens were submerged in water.

Harvard square, Cambridge, presented an unbroken sheet of water to pedestrians during part of the morning. Other Cambridge streets, notably Mt. Auburn street, were flooded. Mt. Auburn street is being repaired and the tracks relaid and persons crossing the street found themselves stepping into holes knee deep in water and mud.

In all sections commuters had to wade through water to board trolley cars. Another delay on the Elevated lines was caused by trouble at Northampton street station.

Women Barbers Join in Drive for Union Cards

Indianapolis, Sept. 10.—Advocates of the admission of women to the organization began a spirited campaign as the convention of the Journeymen Barbers' International Union assembled.

Efforts to open the union membership to women have extended over a number of years. With the advent of bobbed hair and the influx of women patrons to barber shops, those who would admit the women are more hopeful of success at this convention.

B. & M. FIREMAN IS CRUSHED TO DEATH

Scott T. Leighton, thirty-eight years old, of No. 11 Walnut road, Somerville, a fireman on the Boston & Maine railroad, was killed in a freight wreck in the Somerville yards at 8:10 a. m. today.

Leighton's engine, a shifter, in charge of Engineer Charles C. Merrell of No. 14 Austin street, Somerville, was on a siding, some distance away from a string of freight cars.

The fireman left the engine and was walking across the track in the rear of the engine tender, between the engine and the string of cars, when the engine suddenly started moving.

As the engine crashed into the freight cars, Leighton, unable to leap to safety, was caught in the wreckage and was instantly killed. Two cars of the freight train were wrecked.

Medical Examiner Magrath is investigating.

SPEED STUNT SAVES BRITISH RUM-RUNNER

A decision of far-reaching importance was made by Judge James M. Morton in Federal Court today when he gave a clean bill to the British schooner Frances and Louise.

In issuing decrees dismissing libels against the rum-running craft, Judge Morton ruled that she was clearly within her rights as provided under the recent treaty with Great Britain.

This treaty provides that a rum-runner may be searched and seized by United State's officials if she is within one hour's steaming distance from the shore.

When the Frances and Louise was seized July 11, the craft was actually fifteen and a quarter miles off Boston, a distance she could not cover in one hour.

Her arrest came about through the capture of a small boat loaded with alcohol, which the Government said belonged to the Frances and Louise, and which they maintained had a speed of twenty miles an hour.

Evidence was produced to show the speed boat was loaded with Cuban alcohol, sixty thousand gallons of which made up the cargo of the schooner, and was manned by sailors from the Frances and Louise.

The Government contended that through the medium of the small boat the schooner was violating the terms of the treaty, by selling liquor within one hour's steaming distance from the shore.

'THREE WEEKS' IS BANNED IN MELROSE

After viewing a matinee showing of the film, "Three Weeks," based on the story of that name by Elinor Glyn, Mayor Paul H. Provandie of Melrose banned the film from the city.

Mayor Provandie declared he considered the picture unfit for the younger people of Melrose to see. His trip of censorship was taken as a result of complaints against the film from residents of Melrose, although others which he consulted told him there was nothing objectionable in the picture.

Unable to decide upon the opinion of others, the Mayor went to see for himself. After seeing it through he went to his office in City Hall and immediately issued an order to Chief of Police George E. Kerr to ban the the picture.

The film was being shown at the Melrose Theatre. In its place the disappointed patrons who thronged to see the picturization of the famous Elinor Glyn story, saw "Nellie, the Cloak Model."

JUDGE REJECTS KLAN CARDS AS EVIDENCE

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Refusal of Peter Maul, a City Court judge, to permit the use of alleged Ku Klux Klan membership application cards in the John Doe proceedings brought to determine whether members of the hooded order have conspired to violate the Walker law, resulted in a postponement of the hearing until next Thursday. Henry Killen, lawyer, pleaded that the cards are vital factors and that it is useless to proceed without them.

Developments in the Klan investigation here today were:

Argument in the Supreme Court proceedings to force the police to make public the suspected Klan list adjourned until Friday.

The dead are John Childs, his two sons, Thomas and Gotty, and Joseph Cormier. The injured are Orville and Baptiste Richard.

Cormier was officiating at the booth as an election commissioner when the Childs trio appeared. An argument over political matters arose and the elder Childs drew a pistol and began firing.

TAGUE TO RUN AS INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE, FRIENDS DECLARE

FULLER IS NAMED BY G. O. P.

gained several dry votes in the State Senate.

While he regretted the defeat of Congressman Dallinger, Mr. Forbes said it was to be expected in view of the "unprecedented interference in a direct primary by some illadvised friends of the administration in Washington."

SULLIVAN IN LEAD.

Arthur J. Sullivan, of East Boston, candidate for register of probate, is apparently the winner in a nine-cornered contest. But he is leading his nearest opponent, Former Senator James H. Brennan of Charlestown, by only a small margin. Revere and Winthrop are still to be heard from and might change the complexion of the fight.

The Republicans nominated Lieutenant Governor Alvan T. Fuller for Governor over James J. Jackson, Speaker of the House Frederick H. Gillett was nominated for United States Senator, over Congressman Frederick W. Dallinger and Louis A. Coolidge.

Senator William H. Youngman of Boston was nominated for State Treasurer and State Auditor, Alonzo B. Cook renominated on the Republican ticket.

Mayor Curley and Senator David I. Walsh were nominated by the Democrats, for Governor and United States Senator, respectively without opposition.

Former Representative John J. Cummings of Dorchester took the lead early in the three-cornered fight for the lieutenant-governorship contest in the Democratic party and was never passed by the other two candidates, Boynton and O'Hara.

Congressman George Holden Tinkham was an easy winner in the Eleventh Congressional District, defeating the Rev. Dr. Herbert S. Johnson almost two to one.

The vote of the Tenth Congressional District complete was as follows:

Douglas, 11,641; Giblin, 625; Monahan, 1,053; Tague, 9,357. Douglass showed his strength in his own ward, in East Boston, in Ward 5, Loughney's headquarters, and in Ward 6, South End.

Senator William I. Hennessey of Dorchester easily defeated former Senator John J. Carey. The vote was: Hennessey, 6,219; Carey, 3,990.

Senator Francis J. Charlestown won a renomination, running far ahead of his opponent, John J. O'Lary. Senator McCormack of South Boston for the second time defeated "Bob" Bigney.

Representative Chairman of East Boston sprung a surprise when he beat Senator Melody of the South End for renomination. Representative John Drew of Roxbury ran third.

"JERRY" WATSON THIRD.

City Councillor James A. "Jerry" Watson of Roxbury was a bad third in the three-cornered Senatorial fight in the Sixth Suffolk district. Senator Mulvey was easily renominated. John Campbell was second.

Speaker Gillett's victory can in great measure be laid to the indorsements of Frank W. Stearns, President Coolidge's closest personal friend, and to William M. Butler, national Republican committeeman from Massachusetts.

THAYER IS WINNER

Harry L. Thayer, millionaire leather manufacturer of Wakefield, won the six-cornered fight to succeed Frederick W. Dallinger as the Republican nominee in the Eighth Congressional district.

With Belmont to be heard from, Thayer had a lead of over 2,000 votes. His nearest opponent was Merrill Griswold of Cambridge, who carried his own city only. Ex-Senator Wilton B. Fay, like Griswold, carried his home city of Medford.

Thayer is believed to have carried all the other cities and towns in the district with the exception of Belmont, the home of J. Watson Flood, another of the candidates.

In the fifteenth congressional district Congressman William S. Greene, Republican, the dean of the Massachusetts delegation in the National House of Representatives, was renominated. The district with one precinct missing gave him 12,746 votes to 10,153 for Joseph W. Martin, Jr., who resigned as executive chairman of the State Republican Committee to contest the nomination.

The protest of Charles S. Bird, in the Dallinger-Tremont Temple rally, when he denounced the "bosses" charging that the interference of Butler was an attempt to debauch the primary, apparently had little weight with the rank and file of his party.

Fuller's victory is a vindication of his personal record and his right to promotion.

State Auditor Alonzo B. Cook conducted his campaign trio to that of former years, silently, and again confounded his enemies within the party.

Arthur W. Sullivan won the Democratic nomination for register of probate and insolvency in Suffolk County for which there were nine contenders. His plurality was 467. Ex-Senator James H. Brennan of Charlestown ran second, Ex-Representative Frank J. Burke third and George F. Gilbody fourth.

The final figures in this contest were: Brennan, 17,595; Brier, 1,463; Burke, 12,254; Collins, 7,452; Farley, 1,221; Gilbody, 7,869; Heffernan, 6,978; Moynihan, 1,940; Sullivan, 17,872.

Frank L. Brier, the present register of probate and insolvency, won the Republican nomination over Frederick W. Benker, who had 11,819, and Brier 24,197.

CAN'T ALWAYS TELL BY WHISKERS

ONE WON, BUT OTHER LOST

Frederick W. Dallinger (at left) wanted to take his whiskers to the United States Senate, but he has been told to keep them at home. But there's George Holden Tinkham, whose beard has seared African lions. He won a mighty victory in his campaign for representative. The whiskers are not running wild in these pictures. They are trimmed to campaign size.

$250,000 PEARL NECKLACE IS STOLEN

Paris, Sept. 10 (Universal)—Mrs. Edith Sewell of New York city was the victim of a mysterious theft when she was robbed of a pearl necklace valued at more than $250,000. Other jewelry, including a diamond necklace valued at $20,000, were overlooked by the thieves. All the gems were hidden under Mrs. Sewell's pillow.

The robbery took place in the exclusive Beausite Hotel and the police made a desperate effort to keep it secret. Much mystery was thrown around the affair and every endeavor was made to conceal the real identity of the victim.

The pearls which made up the stolen necklace were thought to have been part of the famous Tiffers necklace which was said to have been purchased recently from the French government for 11,000,000 francs by Cartier. This, however, has not been confirmed.

Phone Haymarket 3600 — HOUGHTON & DUTTON — Legal Stamps Given and Redeemed

Because they were manufactured specially for a large concern and they were unable to take them in at the time specified, we secured at a great sacrifice

Two Carloads of Gold Seal CONGOLEUM ART-RUGS
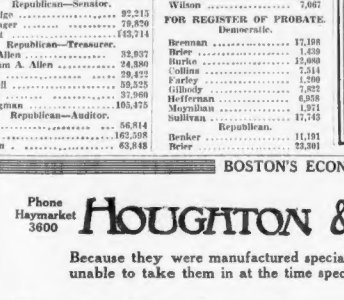
in two exclusive new patterns never shown in this territory before



All First Quality

Two exquisite new patterns never seen in Boston before. One, a design specially adapted to the kitchen, hall or bath, is a high grade parquetry pattern in soft shades of ivory, buff, tan and blue which will not show dust readily and will blend with almost any wall or woodwork color scheme. The other pattern is a copy of beautiful Wilton rug in both design and colorings and is in good taste in dining or living rooms. Its soft shades of taupe and gray combined with rose and blue are really handsome.

They are the well known Congoleum rugs that you often see advertised in the magazines, of which we have sold thousands. Every rug is the famous Gold Seal quality backed by both the manufacturer and ourselves.

Gold Seal Congoleum Art-Rugs possess so many desirable features, aside from their economy, that every housekeeper is sure to find several rooms in her home where this modern floor covering will demonstrate its superiority over all other types of low-priced floor-coverings.

If you contemplate buying a sanitary floor-covering that will give good wear, you cannot afford to miss this opportunity. Think of it—Congoleum Art-Rugs can be cleaned with a damp mop—no more beating or heavy sweeping. They are the ideal sanitary floor-covering.

ONE 18x36 Mat is included Free with each rug in the parquetry pattern.

Because of the great quantity of rugs in this purchase, we have decided not to offer all the sizes at one time. If the size you want is not here, watch for the next announcement which will follow Sunday.

Is Husband Grouchy? Then Try This

"Grouchy" Feeling Mostly Due to Stomach. Adlerika Makes You Eat and Sleep

"There is nothing I have not tried for stomach trouble. Until I heard of Adlerika (intestinal antiseptic) nothing would help. NOW I can eat, sleep and have no more gassy feeling. I used to have. Friends are all pleased with it."—(Signed) Jack Foster.

Intestinal Antiseptic.

"There is now offered to the public a liquid preparation having the HOURLY action of an intestinal antiseptic and a colonic system cleanser. This preparation, known as Adlerika, acts as follows:

It locates and eliminates or destroys harmful germs and colon bacill in the intestinal tract, thus preventing exciting appendicitis and other diseases having their start here.

It cleans out BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes foul matter which poisoned the system for months. It brings out all gases, thus immediately relieving pressure on the heart. It is astonishing the great amount of poisonous matter Adlerika draws from the intestinal canal—matter you never thought was in your system. Try it right after a natural movement and notice how much MORE foul matter it brings out which was poisoning you in slight disorders, such as occasional constipation, sour stomach, gas on the stomach or sick headache, one spoonful Adlerika ALWAYS brings relief. A longer treatment, however, is necessary in cases of obstinate constipation and long standing stomach trouble, preferably under direction of your physician.

Reports from Physicians

"I have found nothing in my 16 years' practice to equal Adlerika."—(Signed) Dr. James Kennedy.

"I congratulate you on the good effect from Adlerika since I prescribed it."—(Signed) Dr. L. Langiotti.

"In one Adlerika I have had bowel cases some require only one dose."—(Signed) Dr. F. M. F. (Name withheld by request.)

"Adlerika is the best in my entire 37 years' experience."—(Signed) Dr. C. Eggers.

"Cannot describe awful IMPURITIES eliminated from my system by Adlerika. Feel better than for 16 years."—(Signed) J. E. Puckett.

Adlerika is a big surprise to people who have used only ordinary bowel and stomach medicines, because of its quick, pleasant and COMPLETE action. It is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

HAPPY HOMES DISRUPTED BY FALSE PRIDE

Many Little Problems Grow Into Rankling Wounds When One Won't Give In

By MARTHA GRAY

Can you imagine two full grown persons living in the same house, sitting opposite each other at meal time, going a whole week without speaking to each other?

Can you imagine two persons in love, as the two in mind unquestionably are, gambling so recklessly with happiness? There must be a tremendous assurance that they care deep down in their hearts, or surely the man would stay down at the club some night, the woman run home to mother's for a few days. There is some compelling force holding the strongther, though their lips do not speak.

The little formal courtesies are kept up. He holds a door open for her. She serves him at the table. Yet, like two mutes, they sit in each other's presence, both too stubborn to venture that first friendly word.

HURT HER FEELINGS

'Twas all over some silly question of his laundry not having been sent, and, consequently, not returned a time for him to wear a certain silk shirt on an occasion, which in his mind, seemed to demand that particular shirt.

Words flew thick and fast enough then. That was the occasion when silence could have been recommended as in excellent taste. If one of them had maintained it, at least, the "mud" would have been over in no time.

But he hurt her feelings. She reciprocated with a stinging thrust. Their respective pride have to be upheld—at the cost of heaven only knows what misery they actually feel.

If he would say, "I'm sorry," she would probably burst into tears of repentance at her utter stupidity and rush to his arms to be comforted.

And then he would volunteer that it was all his fault. And, again, there would be the frank, genial interchange of views and evenings full of placid caresses as they put before the trifling laundry incident upset the happy tenor.

A scheme was suggested by a friend of theirs to break this deadlock of false pride. She was going to phone the wife that her husband had been hurt in an automobile accident, but on older head advised her out of it.

"It isn't hysterics she needs to bring her out of it—but a good sane talking to," said the older one. "The same holds good for the husband.

DISPLAYING WEAKNESS.

"First they should be told that what they are displaying is not pride, but the most pitiful weakness. With every hour of nursing this sop to their vanity they are slowly petrifying the better side of their natures. They are to permit this pride to wreck their happiness, as though any honest pride could be too much to pay to secure it or to preserve it.

"They might be told, too, that their kind of pride has a subtle way of getting into cold storage forever the confidence, sweetness, trust, and sympathy upon which true love is built."

Silence strikes of a day are blighting. Once indulged in, the habit grows until they develop a selfish moody character, and one that makes forgiveness harder every time. When these silences run into days there is a constant reviving of the original memories in all their original vividness, and forgiving and forgetting becomes impossible.

A wound is healed quickly if it is treated right away. So many of the little chafing problems of married life grow into great rankling wounds because of that false pride which will not grant one or the other immediately admitting he or she is in the wrong.

$40,000 SUIT BROUGHT AGAINST BURRAGE

Albert C. Burrage of Boston has been sued in the Suffolk Superior Court by the Merrimac Chemical Company, which seeks to recover $40,000. It is alleged that Mr. Burrage, on January 23, 1924, signed a written guarantee in consideration of the granting of credit to Atlantic Dyestuff Company of Newington, N. H. This last-named company is now in bankruptcy, owing $36,473.08, it is stated.

Mr. Burrage, his son, A. C. Burrage, Jr., and Charles D. Burrage are stated in the papers to have been interested in the Atlantic company.

FLIERS NOT TO HOP BEFORE SATURDAY

Round-World Aviators Are to Take Part in Washington Defence Day Test

Washington, Sept. 10.—The next hop of the Round-the-World fliers, for Dayton, O., which had been scheduled for tomorrow, will be postponed until Saturday at the earliest.

It was emphasized that the delay was due entirely to a desire to give the fliers an opportunity to participate in the Defense Day test in the National Capital and not because of any mechanical failure of their planes or equipment.

The New Orleans, piloted by Lieutenant Nelson, which was forced down outside of Baltimore, was expected to be ready for testing before the end of today.

NEW SMART SET MAKES BOW TODAY

Latest of Hearst Publications Has Interest and Instruction for All Classes

With the October number on sale at the newsstands today, the new Smart Set magazine makes its bow to the public.

The magazine is the latest Hearst publication to make its appearance, and is designed to reach a field hitherto untouched.

Through the medium of authentic stories and features that have a distinct heart appeal, Smart Set will interest and inform readers.

Some of the best known writers in the world today will contribute articles to the new publication. Topics of interest to all will be discussed.

For instance, among the many interesting articles to appear in Smart Set will be an advocacy of polygamy by Frederick Arnold Kummer, noted novelist.

Mr. Kummer quotes history to support his attack on the code of a single wife, and declares that despite all attempts to cast opprobrium on it, polygamy has occupied a place in the evolution of the human race, the importance of which can scarcely be overestimated.

The editor of Smart Set has not allowed the challenge to go unanswered. Adela Rogers St. Johns, author of "The Worst Woman in Hollywood," and "The Eyes of the Blind," defends monogamous marriages as vigorously as her opponent attacks them.

Scarlet-Coated Huntsmen Ride to Fox Hounds at Myopia Meets

By BETTY ALDEN

THERE are scarlet streaks of the horizon down Hamilton Wenham way these brisk late Summer days.

For the hunting season at Myopia is on, and the scarlet coated riders are out early in the morning to follow the hounds over hill and dale.

The first meeting of the drag hounds came last week, the Myopians starting from the Frederick J. Alley stables at "Borderland Farm," South Hamilton. Tuesday and Fridays are the days for the drag hound meets, both meets the week starting from the Procter estate.

Major James W. Appleton, U. S. F. H. at Myopia, has scheduled for hounds meets for each Wednesday and Saturday with the exception of Saturday, Sept. 20, the day of the Topsfield Fair, the second hunt of that week coming on Friday instead.

Just when the members of other colonies along the North Shore are beginning to shiver a bit and think about opening up the town house, the folks down Hamilton Wenham way are settling down to enjoy the Autumn season.

Not a few people come from Manhattan and other places to take a cottage there just for the hunting season. For Myopia has a hunting section par excellence.

AND the members of the gentler sex are quite as enthusiastic hunters as the sterner folk.

Among the keenest followers of the Myopia hounds are Mr. and Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman Jr., people playing Freddy Ayer and his pink coated wife, whose riding is always a feature of the horse shows along the Shore; Gordon Prince and his equally sport-devoted bride, the former Anna Agassiz; Frederick Prince Jr., one of Myopia's crack mallet-wielders; dashing Mrs. John S. Lawrence, who will be sadly missed when she and her daughter Eloise leave for a Winter's sojourn in England; Mr. and Mrs. Nell W. Rice (Emma Mandell), both the Rice and Mandell families being among the prominent in the Shore's horse-loving coterie; and others there are equally prompt for these early morning hunts.

A HORSEMAN OF SKILL AND FAME

Major James W. Appleton, M. F. H. of the Myopia Hunt Club, spends much of his time at "Appleton Farms," Ipswich. His Winter residence is in New York, though even after the snow flies he may be found at "Appleton Farms."
(Photo by Joe Dixon.)

JUST now, of course, all Myopian interest is revolving about the steeplechase to be run under the direction of the Myopia Hunt Club, Saturday, October 16.

"Willow Dale," the Bradley W. Palmer estate in Topsfield, affords an excellent setting for this event, when the much-coveted National Hunt Cup will be awarded.

Bayard Tuckerman Jr., heads the committee in charge of the steeplechase, his assistants including William Almy Jr., Freddy Ayer, Gordon Prince and Bayard Warren.

sands of old fools are busy proving how foolish they can be. The strange thing is that a young female can sometimes make an extraordinary fool of herself about an old fool.

News comes from Geneva that the beautiful young Hungarian Countess Gabrielle Scheheny shot herself to death because a sixty-one-year-old Austrian archduke named Eugene insisted on marrying somebody else, a middle-aged widow with plenty of money. That is a wise thing for a duke to do in these days. But the young countess couldn't understand it.

DAZZLING HUES SEEN IN WRAPS OF MILADY

New York, Sept. 10 (Universal).—The "Four Hundred" of New York and its fashionable suburbs came to a sudden realization that they had undergone a complete transformation in color styles for evening wraps.

After a month of hectic preparation for what was considered the most formal affair yet given in the United States in honor of the Prince of Wales—the $100,000 dinner-dance given by Clarence H. Mackay at Harbor Hill, Roslyn, L. I.—society turned out in an imposing array of dazzling reds and greens and whites.

Gone were the anaemic pastel shades in evening wraps. In their place, brilliant scarlets, lettuce-colored greens and canary-yellows reflected the bright lanterns illuminating the entrance gates to the Harbor Hill mansion, and presented a vivid panorama of dazzling hues.

As the guests emerged from their motor cars, it became evident that vivid hues were most popular, while eight out of every ten evening wraps were of velvet.

3 HOLDUP MEN ROB RABBI OF $50

Attack Cleric as He Enters Home and Escape in Auto

Three bandits with drawn guns held up Rabbi Harold Kortlan on Seaver street, Dorchester, and escaped after robbing him of $50.

Rabbi Kortlan lives at No. 331 Seaver street. He was about to enter the house when an auto drew to the curb. Three youths leaped out and surrounded him.

"Hands up, and give us your money quick," one of the bandits said.

As two pressed revolvers to his head, a third went through his pockets. Then they jumped into their machine and dashed away.

'SHEIK' SOUGHT AS TWO GIRLS DISAPPEAR

Bobbed Wards of Children's Society Go for Walk, Fail to Return

State and city police began a search yesterday for two pretty bobbed-hair wards.

The two girls are Helen, 15, and Mary Dunkerton, 17, wards of the Children's society. The sisters are from Worcester. They were being boarded by the society at 25 Mt. Vernon street, pending further disposition.

Their pleas to be allowed to take a walk were heeded by the matron of the home. They walked out of the house and out of sight.

The last seen of them they were talking to a young "sheik" in an auto, near the home.

SMILE AIDS BABY TO WIN LOVING CUP

Judges in 'Perfect Baby' Contest simply verified the opinions of the proud parents of this husky South Boston youngster

SOUTH BOSTON BOY RULED 'PERFECT'

Ten-months-old J. Frank Devine, Jr., of No. 225 M street, South Boston, who has been termed "the baby with the adorable smile," is sporting a large silver loving cup as a result of winning a "perfect baby" contest conducted by the Order of Moose.

"Junior" is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Devine, both of whom are widely known in amateur theatrical circles. Since the arrival of this husky and cheerful addition to the Devine family, however, both parents have had little time to devote to anybody or anything but him. Long before the judges decided he was a "perfect baby" the parents had reached that conclusion.

WRONG MAN IS PICKED IN LOVE SUIT

Father of Three Boys in Newton Served by Mistake in $25,000 Action

Something went wrong with the machinery of the Middlesex Superior Court and John C. Bishop of No. 77 Smith avenue, Newton, married and the father of three boys, was served with papers in a breach of promise suit filed by Miss Louise S. Brown of Medford, a girl whom Bishop had never before heard of.

It required several attorneys to untangle the mixup and discover that the defendant in the suit is missing.

The entire affair was a case of mistaken identity, according to the girl's lawyer. The real defendant in the suit is said to own real estate in Boston and is the proprietor of a hotel in Tampa, Fla. His name, according to the papers in the suit, is John C. Bishop, the same as that of the Newton man.

When the tangle was unravelled, the Newton man was relieved of the necessity of appearing in court and a search was started for the Bishop who is alleged to have jilted Miss Brown after a romance in Tampa, Fla.

SHIELDED GIRL BY ADMITTING MURDER

Sweetheart Innocent, Says Girl, Who Now Admits She Fired Shot

Detroit, Sept. 10 (Universal).—Two men confessed a murder they did not commit to shield a beautiful 20-year-old girl, it was intimated here.

Peggy O'Neill, in a letter written by her and in possession of the prosecutor's office, says that it was she who killed Lawrence Rickert, a year ago and that the confessions of her sweetheart, Paul Da Rouch and his pal, Edward Jenkins were untrue.

Peggy's letter was written from the Ohio Reformatory for Girls at Marysville, O., where she was sent after Da Rouch and Jenkins had been sentenced to life terms.

Miss O'Neill said in her letter that "Paul and Edward are not guilty. It was I who fired the shot that killed Rickert."

WORCESTER YOUTH HURT AT FOOTBALL

Worcester, Sept. 10.—One of the first football casualties of the season is Raymond Brown, fifteen years old, of No. 56 South street, who is in City Hospital suffering from a fractured left collar bone, suffered while playing football on Heywood street.

MELROSE MAN HELD IN B. & M. WORKER'S DEATH

Eugene Tack, 27, of 39 Trenton street, Melrose, was arrested by Officer Patrick Britten of the State constabulary, on a charge of manslaughter growing out of the death on Lubec Day of Charles W. Pace, 74, a crossing tender employed by the Boston & Maine railroad at Topsfield. Pace was run down at Topsfield turnpike, it is alleged. Pace died afterwards at Salem Hospital.

CHILD, 2, KILLED IN FALL FROM WINDOW

Lawrence, Sept. 10.—Ralph Wynn, aged two, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wynn, died at the Lawrence General Hospital, as a result of injuries he suffered when he fell from the second story window of the family home. He was standing on a chair at the open but screened window, when he toppled over and the screening gave way.

Are the Chinese smarter than you are?

It so happens that the above is not a letter sheet from a Chinese laundry. It is a reproduction of the back label on a Listerine bottle as sold in China. Listerine is distributed the world over.

IN China, as you probably know, the doctor receives his fee for keeping you well. When you get sick, his fees stop until you are on your feet again.

This method has been followed for centuries — the oldest method of preventive medication.

Modern methods suggest the systematic use of a safe, effective antiseptic that will guard you against infection and the many illnesses that follow.

Listerine, the safe antiseptic, serves ideally this way. Used regularly as a mouth wash and gargle it proves an effective barrier against most of the more common germ diseases.

Have Listerine handy in your home and encourage your family to cultivate the systematic habit of using it. Many illnesses can be avoided in this way.

When you feel that first dry hitch in your throat on swallowing, which is the danger signal of sore throat, let Listerine guard you against more serious troubles.

Sore throat is a nuisance and usually comes at just the time you want to feel your best. By making Listerine a regular part of your daily toilet routine, you can usually avoid sore throat and often save yourself inconvenience and discomfort.

Listerine has dozens of other uses. Please read carefully the circular that comes with each bottle.—Lambert Pharmacal Company, Saint Louis, U. S. A.

BUSINESS MENS WIVES URGED TO COOK LIGHT BREAKFASTS

Should a business man eat a hevy breakfast of four or five different dishes?

And if he does, should he expect his wife to get up an hour earlier than usual to cook it for him?

These interesting questions were asked in a letter received by The American yesterday from "Mrs. I. J." And they were answered by various prominent Boston folk.

"Mrs. H. J.'s letter follows:

"My husband and I agree on most things, but on breakfast we are as far apart as the two poles.

"He wants me to get up every morning and fix him one of those old fashioned New England breakfasts of fruit, cereal, ham and eggs and hot cakes. Sometimes he even insists that I make him hot biscuits.

"I have to get up at 6 o'clock some mornings in order to feed him sufficiently.

"I insist that most successful men eat light breakfasts of cereal, fruit and toast, but he says he can't work properly unless he has a four or five course breakfast.

"Do you think a heavy meal is the proper thing in the morning?

"Also do you think it is right to ask a wife to get up an hour early in order to get up a thresher's breakfast?"

And this is what a representative group of Boston men think about the matter.

HEAVY AT NOON.

Dr. David Johnson, Institution commissioner of the City of Boston, says:

"I believe the average business man eats a light morning meal. The heaviest meal should certainly be taken at noon, and the evening meal should be a very light one.

"Everybody is eating too much, anyway; and a person who eats a very heavy breakfast, unless doing laborious work or run down, is surely cutting his life short.

"Insurance companies show that the man who is overweight, does not live to an old age. Moreover, it is a coincidence that people who are hearty eaters and overweight have diabetes.

"The man whose wife won separate support from him because she had to give up an hour's sleep in order to feed him sufficiently, was most unreasonable in his demands, and if I were a woman, I would certainly not get up such a meal for him in the early morning.

"The ideal breakfast consists of fruit, toast, tea or coffee, and cereal in Winter.

"The noon meal, in addition to meat, should have a supply of "leafy" vegetables. Dr. McCullom of Johns Hopkins University, who for twelve years has experimented with diets, says that leafy vegetables and milk are an absolute necessity for vitality. He has also proven that a man's diet may completely change his disposition and character, as well as his state of health.

"For over seven months I have taken wheat crumbles and milk at night—nothing more—and have not lost a pound in weight nor a wink of sleep. The man who eats a heavy evening meal, is the man who has a restless night's sleep.

"Women should remember that the old saying, 'The way to a man's heart is through his stomach,' has a lot of truth in it; and try to make a study of the meal problem and educate her husband along the right lines."

MRS. CURLEY'S IDEAS.

Mrs. James M. Curley, Mayor's wife, says:

Mrs. Curley.

"The matter of meal time is one of personal judgment. My opinion of the matter is that most business men are light eaters in the morning and at noon also.

"While, from a medical standpoint, the midday meal perhaps should be the heaviest one, it is often hard to arrange this, due to the pressure of business. I know this is the Mayor's case very often anyway.

"I believe the majority of men are most reasonable in their demands as to meals; and a husband who wants an unusually hearty breakfast is the exception, not the rule.

"A woman should always get her husband's breakfast, when possible, and I think even if I were obliged by circumstances to supply an extra heavy meal in the morning, I would get it, anyway, and, if sleepy, lie down again after my husband left for the office."

WOULD EDUCATE 'EM.

Mrs. Carrie F. Sheehan, Assistant Election Commissioner:

"The average man's breakfast consists, I think, of toast, eggs, coffee, and perhaps fruit.

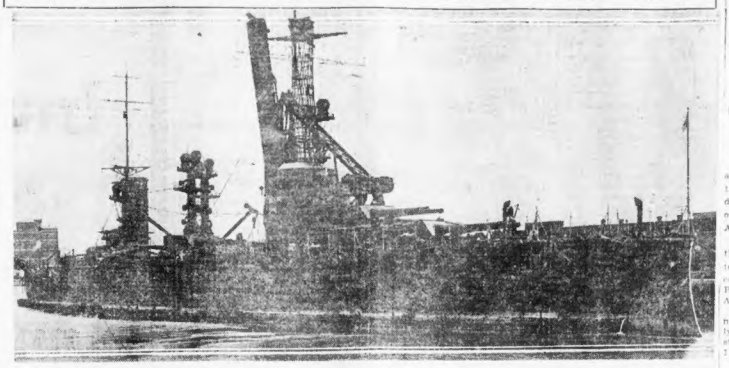
"Although a man insisted upon a very heavy morning meal, if he were a good provider and we Mrs. Sheehan.

could come to no decision on the matter, I would get up at four o'clock in the morning to get it for him, and try to educate him to lighter meals. Nothing is gained by fighting—in the home, at least.

"I have no patience with the woman who will let her husband eat a breakfast or here. It is too late for words. A man, if left to himself, will almost invariably eat nothing but a drink; or, if he does eat a hurried breakfast, it often causes him to be late in the office, thereby putting him in a poor frame of mind for the day.

"I think also that the home atmosphere over a pleasant breakfast table is a thing much to be commended, and makes the day much happier for both parties."

BRINGS GOLDEN CARGO FROM SPANISH MAIN



GREAT ARGENTINE BATTLESHIP RIVADAVIA

The valuable cargo consigned to the National Shaumut Bank by its Buenos Aires correspondent is now safely reposing in the vaults of the Federal Reserve Bank where it stands to the credit of the consignee. The trillion, packed in fifty nine boxes, weighing 110 pounds and valued at $55,000 each, was transported through the city under heavy guard.

BIG ARGENTINE WARSHIP AT FORE RIVER

Rivadavia at Shipyards for Overhauling After Delivering $1,475,000 in Gold

Laden with gold like the famous argonies that sailed the Spanish Main, the Argentine battleship Rivadava docked at Fore River after a cruise of thirty-one days from Buenos Aires.

The gold, valued at $1,475,000, was the first direct shipment of its kind to this city in several years. It was consigned to the National Shawmut Bank for the credit of its Buenos Aires correspondent.

The bullion was contained in fifty-nine heavy wooden boxes, thoroughly sealed and bound on the ends with steel bands. Each box contained 110 pounds of gold or $55,000.

The boxes, after removal from the storage vaults of the vessel, were stacked on deck and checked according to their markings. Later they were carried under heavy guard to the Federal Reserve Bank to be placed to the credit of the National Shawmut Bank.

The Rivadava, which carries crew of 666 officers and crew, will remain here for several months while being extensively reconditioned at the Fore River plant.

TITLED FRIEND OF WALES ASKS DIVORCE

Charges Duke of Westminster Is Cruel, Fickle and Has Locked Her Out

London, Sept. 10 (A.P.)—The Duchess of Westminster, who has figured prominently in the galeties connected with the entertainment of the Prince of Wales on Long Island, has petitioned for the dissolution of her marriage, the papers having been served on the Duke August 18, it was revealed in court today.

The divorce proceedings came out when attorneys for the Duchess renewed their application made a fortnight ago for an injunction to restrain the Duke from ejecting her from her home, Bourdon House, Berkeley square, near Grosvenor House, the Duke's London home.

The effort to obtain the injunction failed, the court issuing no order on the motion, which was dismissed.

In stating the facts on which the Duchess based her application for an injunction, her attorney said that shortly after her marriage on November 26, 1920, the Duke treated her with great cruelty.

The attorney also declared that the Duke's relations with other women were such that the Duchess remonstrated with him at Cannes in January of this year, telling him he must alter his mode of life or she would be unable to live with him.

The duke refused to alter his mode of life, continued the attorney, and suggested they should live apart. He asked the duchess to live at Bourdon house and said monetary provision would be made for her.

Counsel said the Duchess did not desire to leave the duke but that his refusal to alter his mode of living gave her no alternative.

The duchess lived at Bourdon house until the divorce petition was filed, counsel continued, the duke then ordering her out

KEENEST EYES TO SHARE IN $1,700 AWARD

Largest Lists of New England Made Products to Win Contest

There is not an enterprising merchant in your city who will not be glad to help you earn a part of the $1,700 the Boston American will pay in cash awards in connection with the coming observance of New England Week.

During New England Week, beginning on Monday, September 15 and ending on Saturday, September 20, the retailers will devote their windows, their shelves and their counters to an exhibition of the thousand and one things produced in New England.

The Boston American's $1,700 will be divided among those of its readers who send in the largest lists of these New England products seen on display.

NO NEED TO BUY.

It is not necessary that you "buy" anything. New England Week is not a bargain but an educational week. Its purpose is to tell us which ARE the things produced in New England, in the belief that "to know New England products is to want New England products."

Make a list of the New England products which you will see exhibited in the week beginning Monday, September 15. Make a careful, complete and accurate list. Number the articles. Tell where, in New England, each is produced. Name the shop in which you see it. Give street address. Tell whereabouts in the store you saw the article.

$500 FIRST AWARD

The Boston American's first cash award, of $500, will be paid to the resident of New England, man, woman or junior, who before midnight on Saturday, September 20, sends in the largest list of New England products which he or she has seen exhibited in the course of New England Week.

For the next largest list sent in, under like conditions, the Boston American will pay $200.

There are five awards of $100 each, five of $50 each, five of $25 each, five of $10 each and fifteen of $5 each.

The first and the second awards are ALL NEW ENGLAND awards.

The thirty-five other awards, however, are district awards. There are seven awards for each district. First award, $100; second, $50; third, $25; fourth, $10; fifth, sixth and seventh awards, $5 each. Seven awards, $200 in all, for each of the five districts. Total, $1,000. Add the "grand" awards, $500 and $200, and you have the total of $1,700.

COMPETITION WIDE OPEN.

And so on until your list is completed.

The largest list sent in may tell the story of one hundred New England products, or, it may be, five hundred. No one knows. No one can tell from now until the time expires and there is opportunity to look the lists over.

Your chance is as good as anyone else's. The competition is wide open to all, without reference to sex or age. No entrance fee is charged. There is no entry blank to be filled out. It is not necessary to subscribe to the Boston American. You must, however, be a bona fide resident of New England.

The $1,700 "Keep Your Eyes Open" competition is a further contribution by this newspaper to the most important movement yet undertaken for the purpose of informing New Englanders about the products of these six States.

YANKS NOT LIKELY TO CRACK

OL' JACK QUINN is entirely in favor of Defence Day. CONWAY FINDS FIRPO IS MUCH IMPROVED FIGHTING MAN

AGE MAY BE UNDOING OF COLORED PANTHER

By JACK CONWAY

New York, Sept. 10.—Luis Firpo and Harry Wills are each prepared to knock each other out of the picture when they clash in their twelve-round bout for glory and gold at Boyle's Thirty Acres over in Jersey tomorrow night.

The rival thumpers have ended their training and will spend today figuring out how much income tax they will be obliged to pay on the healthy fortunes they will receive for doing a little walloping under the direction of Tex Rickard. Firpo will draw down close to $200,000, while $100,000 or so will be paid to the brown panther of New Orleans. The immortal John L. Sullivan would have gladly consented to knock out a regiment of Firpos and Willises for $50,000.

The dear old reformers, who made drastic efforts to stop the bout, have been routed. They were in retreat along the Jersey coast as these lines were handed to the tender mercies of a telegraph operator.

ADVANCE SALE SUFFERS.

Governor George Silzer of New Jersey delivered the final kayo to the reformers when he announced he would make no effort to prevent Firpo and Wills doing their stuff at Jersey City. All of which probably took considerable mental worriment from the minds of Rickard, Firpo, Wills and the other young men who will benefit as a result of the drive on Boyle's Thirty Acres.

All this talk about stopping the bout has not tended to boost the advance sale. The citizens from California and other distant points are not parking themselves in front of Broadway's hotels, as was the case when Dempsey fought Carpentier and later quarreled with Firpo. They apparently did not care to make the long trip to New York and then discover that the only thing they could see here was a flock of hungry chorus girls and broken down actors.

From Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and other places not too remote from Broadway's flickering lights have come heavy orders for reservations during the past few days.

Rickard told this writer that his advance sale was not up to expectations, but he added that now that the reformers have been driven to cover he did not expect to have any difficulty in filling his arena to capacity on tomorrow night.

FIRPO CONCLUDES TRAINING

This writer made inquiries at the box office at Madison Square Garden and found that all ringside seats for the first thirty-four rows had been sold. There were thousands of seats behind this point. Rickard looks for his big sale on the day of the bout when the fans will make their march on little old New York.

Firpo finished his training before 2,000 fans at Madison Square Garden. As the customers paid 50 cents each for the privilege of gazing upon the stolid features of the Wild Bull of the Pampas, everybody connected with the affair was serene and happy. Luis even favored the assembled multitude with a faint smile.

As Firpo walked from his dressing room to the ring, he was given an ovation by the crowd. The efforts to deport Firpo evidently have won him the sympathy of the public as the gathering was very friendly to the South American.

Firpo shadow-boxed for three rounds, then boxed two rounds with an Argentine heavyweight, and two more with Bill Tait.

It was the first time we have seen Firpo in action since he was knocked out by Dempsey. He weighed 218 pounds, and appeared in the best possible physical condition.

NO LONGER DUMBELL.

The Firpo who did his stuff in the Garden ring appeared a much better fighting man than the one who opposed Dempsey. Luis has profited as a result of his ring experience. Instead of relying entirely upon his right hand, as he did in his encounters with Dempsey's stuff. At times he cuties with his left.

If Firpo's left hand had been as well developed when he battled Dempsey as it is today, he would have won the championship. When Dempsey regained his feet after being knocked through the ropes by Firpo, his own right hand was limp at his side. He was wide open for a left hook to the body. Instead, Firpo let drive with a right hand swing to Dempsey's protected jaw.

Firpo has also stolen some of Dempsey's stuff. At times he bores from a crouch. As he moves forward, he sways his body from side to side as Dempsey does. It is difficult for an opponent to hit a moving target, while the advancing man is able to get great power behind his own blows.

To use the vernacular of the sporting world, the Firpo who faces Wills tomorrow night will not be the dumbbell who was knocked down nine times by Dempsey.

QUESTION OF STAMINA.

Wills has arrived in town from Southampton, L. I., where he prepared for his tussle with the South American. Harry is on razor edge condition. This is the big opportunity he has been waiting for. He intends to make the most of it.

Outwardly Wills looks perfectly fit. The only question is whether he possesses the necessary stamina. When Wills fought Bartley Madden early in the Summer, he was fortunate to win the decision at the end of fifteen rounds. Four times it was necessary for his seconds to direct him to his own corner.

Wills says he is in better condition now than he was for Madden. He maintains he is holding his own with Father Time and will have the old sip behind his punches and the flash to his movements when he opposes Firpo.

Then there are those that maintain that age has conquered Wills before he received his big opportunity.

HARD TO PICK WINNER.

The mental worriment Firpo has been under in connection with the drive to deport him may prove as much of a handicap to him as Wills will be under on account of being thirty-two years old.

There are so many angles to tomorrow night's encounter that it is not an easy task to name the winner. Even the gentlemen with superior wisdom who avoid work by playing their money on the right man admit that the Firpo-Wills match has given them brain fag.

We shall gather additional information today and tomorrow shall tell you whether the Wild Bull of the Pampas or the brown panther of New Orleans will be the one to oppose Jack Dempsey next year.

American to Give Out Wills-Firpo Fight Returns

Thursday night the Boston American will megaphone the results of the Wills-Firpo fight at Jersey City bowl.

The returns will be given blow by blow and round by round from the Hearst Building in Winthrop square.

If you want to get the big news of the fight as it takes place, come to Winthrop square Thursday night.

Kid Leader of the Senators Talk of the Baseball World

By RUTH KLEINBERGER.

Washington, Sept. 10.—From a lowly station in the baseball world, the Washington Club suddenly spurted this year to first place in the

it up to the head of the league. And yet he is the youngest manager in big league baseball.

How did he do it?

American League. With the end of the season in sight, they still hold the lead in the race for the pennant, and are confident of winning.

While the Nationals have been piling up their victories, folks have begun to hear about "Bucky" Harris.

He is the man—or rather boy—who put the Nationals across. He is the lad who took a team that had known only the sting of defeat and pushed it to victory.

Who is "Bucky" Harris?

Nobody but "Bucky" himself really knows and he doesn't like to say much about it. He will talk at length about the fine fellows on his team, and what they have accomplished, but Mr. Stanley R. Harris does not strike him as being an important subject for discussion.

IN THE GAME SINCE 1916.

"Bucky" was born to baseball. He has been playing big league ball since 1916 and yet he was only 27 his last birthday.

Harris has made his big success because he not only understands baseball; he understands a lot about human nature as well. He felt that it is not only training and practice and ability that makes a team. It takes spirit, too; the kind of spirit that makes men feel they can win because they have to.

Bucky has the gift of leadership. He can make men believe in him.

He succeeded in instilling into the men that make up the nations big own spirit; he wakened their pep he sold them to themselves.

Bucky does not look a bit older than his age; in fact, he looks younger. Standing five foot eight inches high, he is strongly built, although quite slim.

SAYS LITTLE BUT SAWS WOOD

Bucky doesn't talk much, but he seems to measure carefully what he does say. Behind his quiet, almost shy manner when talking to strangers one can see a good deal of shrewdness, and this boy manager is not married. Not even spoken for, he asserts.

In 1917, when the call of war had depleted the ranks of many good baseball clubs, the infield of the Reading New York State League, team was all shot to pieces.

George Wiltse, ex-New York Giant pitching star, was managing Reading. He was tipped off that a good infielder could be found at Plattsburgh, Pa.

The name of the infielder as given to Wiltse was Meryl Harris, elder brother of Stanley, then 17. Meryl was not at home when Wiltse telegram arrived. Stanley, the story goes, opened it and went to Reading.

He was given a tryout, made good, finished the season and then told Wiltse he was the brother of the man the manager originally sought.

Short Sports of All Sorts

Wet weather caused postponement of the entire program of grand circuit races which had been scheduled for the State Fair track at Syracuse, N. Y., and the card of five events will be run today beginning at 12.30, prior to the start of the regular Wednesday program.

Rain prevented the playing of scheduled matches in the girls' national and women's Middle States tennis tournaments at the Philadelphia Cricket Club.

Young Stribling, youthful boxing sensation of Macon, Ga., without apparent effort knocked out Glenn Clichner of Zanesville, O., in the second round of their scheduled 12-round bout at Columbus.

Tommy French of Boston, defeated Gunboat Jack of Lawrence, in the 10-round main bout of the Relleview A. C. show at Portsmouth, N. H.

* * *

The ten-round contest between Harry Greb, middleweight titleholder, and Gene Tunney, light heavyweight champion, twice postponed because of rain, will be decided in the Olympic Arena, Cleveland, tonight.

Mickey Walker, welterweight champion of the world, will go through with his fight with Bobby Barrett of Philadelphia, scheduled September 29, in that city, regardless of the fact that the British Cup found a little too much weather yachts are said to be built for heavy Long Island Sound and the American yachtsmen, the defenders of the British challengers won the third race Amer. on International Six Meter by 19 to 14½ points.

YOUTH ALONE ROBS BOXER OF TITLE

New York box ng moguls who rule the fistic game in the Empire State with an iron hand refuse to allow Billy "Young" Stribling, 19-year-old Macon, Ga., schoolboy to meet Gene Tunney for the light heavyweight championship until he has cast his first vote.

Stribling today is nineteen years old. The New York laws state that a participant in a main bout in that State shall be twenty-one. Tex Rickard wants to match Stribling with Gene Tunney for the championship.

When he comes to Boston next Tuesday night to clash with Tommy Robson of Maden at Mechanics Building Gene may well pay homage to the latest fighting miracleman.

That Boston will shatter all records in greeting the youngster in his bout with Robson is shown by the extraordinary sale of tickets for the bout.

COOK FAMILY WIN IN BIG STORE GOLF

A quartet named Cook from Stoneham, with a total of 355 strokes, walked away with the Schaakhe Cup when Boston department store owners and their executives held their annual tourney at Belmont Springs Country Club.

A record field of 83 golfers participated in the meet, which was staged under the direction of a committee headed by John Shepard, 3rd.

George B. Studer of the R. H. White Company, with a net score for low net, covered by [illegible] of Stockett, with 81, [illegible] John Shepard, Jr., Charles Hanley, Jr., and J. McCarthy with 85—16—72, 87—15—72 and 81—8—72, respectively.

Cook and McCarthy tied for low gross in Class A., N. Warner of Jordan's in Class B and Edward Mitten of Jordan's in Class C had the best scores in their divisions.

AMERICAN YACHTS WIN THIRD RACE OF SERIES

St. Joseph's to Open Amateur Boxing Season This Week

The first amateur boxing tournament of the season will be conducted at Commercial Hall, Bowdoin Square next Friday night.

The St. Joseph T. A. A. of the West End will conduct the tournament under the direction of William H. Cuddy, who recently returned from Paris with the Olympic boxers.

The tournament will be only for novice boxers as it has been arranged to stage five classes for new comers. The classes include 112, 117, 126, 135 and 147 pounds and there is a large entry list in each division.

Entries can be made with W. H. Cuddy, No. 85 Cambridge street, while tickets can be procured at Room 10, No. 258 Washington street.

ST. LOUIS CARDINALS PICK CALIFORNIA SPRING CAMP

St. Louis, Sept. 10.—Stockton, Cal., will be the 1925 Spring training camp of the St. Louis Nationals, according to a telegram from Manager Branch Rickey, received here today. The change from Bradentown, Fla., where the Cardinals have trained for the last two seasons, marks the first invasion of California by a St. Louis major league team for training purposes. Unsatisfactory hotel facilities in Florida are given as the reason for the change.

Stribling Kayoes Ohioan

Columbus, O., Sept. 10.—Young Stribling, youthful boxing sensation of Macon, Ga., without apparent effort knocked out Glenn Clickner of Zanesville, O., in the second round of their scheduled 12-round bout.

Polo Players Older Than the Average Champion

Most strenuous athletic competitions are between youthful competitors. The polo series between Great Britain and the United States, which begins at the Meadow Brook Club today, is between men who (with but a single exception) would probably have been out of the champion ship class for several years.

The average age of the American team, because of the presence of one twenty-four-year-old, is 33.5 years. The average age of the Britons is 40.25 years. J. Watson Webb is 38; Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., 24; Malcolm Stevenson, 37; Devereux Milburn, 42 (Lieutenant Colonel) T. P. McMillan, 47; Major F. B. Hundall, 41; Major E. G. Atkinson, 36, and Luis L. Lacey, 37.

YANKEE BATTERS EASY FOR SOUTHPAW PITCHERS

The New York Yankees are considered suckers for good southpaws. Many of the games which the Yanks have lost this season can be blamed on southpaw pitching. Wingard of the Browns and Whitsell of the Tigers have given the champions plenty of trouble. Not in many years have the left handers had such a boom as this year.

The number of promising left handers in the majors this season is taken as an indication of improved pitching by the old timers. There are three times as many left-handers in the majors today as there were four years ago. The managers believe that the pitching has almost overcome the great advantage the lively ball placed on the batsman.

3-MINUTE JOURNEYS

By Temple Manning

RUGGED old Fort McHenry guards the entrance to the city of Baltimore. It stands at the mouth of the harbor, a huge gray fortress, brooding over the water approaches of the city like a silent sentinel.

It was there, on September 12, 1814, during the war between the United States and Great Britain, when the English squadron under the command of Admiral Cockburn, shelled the fort in a vain attempt to capture the city of Baltimore, that the inspiration for "The Star Spangled Banner" came to Francis Scott Key.

A day before the bombardment a British flagship was stationed in the harbor. Key, who was practicing law in Baltimore, visited the ship in an effort to obtain the release of a friend, who was held as a prisoner of war. The release was granted, but the two were detained on board overnight as a precaution against revealing the British plans to the American authorities.

That evening the bombardment of Fort McHenry started. All during the night it continued. When the dawn came and the smoke of battle had cleared away, the British forces had retreated, and Key saw that the Stars and Stripes was still flying from the top of the flagstaff.

The sight of the old flag, torn by shot and shell, so thrilled Key that he drew from his pocket an old envelope and, on the inspiration of the moment, wrote the first stanza of the immortal "Star Spangled Banner."

Later, when Key had been allowed to land, he finished the poem. The music for the anthem, taken from an old English drinking song, "Anacreon in Heaven," was furnished by one of Key's friends, Judge Nicholson, who united the words and tune with surprising success.

Fort McHenry still stands, old and battered, guarding the harbor at Baltimore, as always be revered by the millions who have been thrilled by "The Star Spangled Banner."

Mother of Six

Helping Hand Editor:

I am the mother of six children. My husband is in the hospital and the boys are in need of blouses and shoes. My two girls need petticoats and dresses. Their ages are 9 and 7. My baby needs some warm clothes. The children are three boys, 13, 11 and 6, and three girls, 9, 7 and 2. Mrs. D. L.

Timely Offerings

Helping Hand Editor:

Am writing once more, having quite a few baby clothes left. We are moving to the country, so what you would have someone call soon. Also have a few plain chairs. If I have not the clothing, size 34, who shall I mail it to? Keep up your good work. It is truly wonderful. G. H. B.

Many thanks for this offering, Mrs. B. Q., 10-year-old mother, whose husband is out of work, and who is quite expecting the stork will welcome the baby clothes, and Mrs. M. McK. is in need of clothes. We have asked them both to call for these things. Where you have sizes, its size clothing, please send to E. C., whose address we are sending you. She is a mother of eight little ones.

Has Ten Children

Helping Hand Editor:

I have ten children and my husband has been out of work for four months. My only helper, a little girl, was working, but also took sick. I am having a very hard time. I would be very thankful if some kind person would give me some clothes for the children. They are boys—9 months, 2, 10, 16 years, girls—3, 7, 13, 18. Mrs. B. Q.

Sending Addresses

Helping Hand Editor:

I have some things that could be used or made over which I would give to some mother of girls. I also have a man's overcoat.

J. W.

Thank you, Mrs. D., mother of nine, will appreciate the clothing for girls, and E. C. can make good use of the overcoat. We are sending you these addresses.

Needs Furniture

Helping Hand Editor:

I have just moved into a couple of unfurnished rooms and owing to a long sickness I am unable to put much furniture in. If any kind person has a table, a stove and a chair and some carpet, I would be very grateful.

Mrs. K. F., Roxbury.

Clothes for Children

Helping Hand Editor:

I am very poor and am badly in need of children's clothing. I haven't a thing warm for my little ones. My husband is sick and not able to work. The two girls are under 4 years, the boy 5 and the baby 8 months old. Mrs. F. C.

Asks Sewing Machine

Helping Hand Editor:

I wonder if anyone has an old sewing machine stored away that they could send to a mother of seven, mostly girls, who is trying to sew by hand, besides all the other duties such a family entails? It would be a wonderful help to her. I have helped her all I could from time to time, but of course a sewing machine would be the best help of all. Mrs. M. D. M.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney
Boston Health Commissioner

EVERY human being is an electrical machine. In his brain are myriads of storage batteries or cells. They are called "Purkinje cells" in honor of the man who discovered them.

Dr. Mahoney.

Every Purkinje cell is connected with two perfectly insulated wires, or fibres, which carry impulses both ways between the storage batteries in the brain and different parts of the body. In this particular there is a striking similarity between a human being and an automobile.

And just like those of an automobile, a man's storage batteries will run down" or become "exhausted."

It has been shown in both animals and man that overwork, pain, fear, anger or grief will cause the Purkinje cells—the brain batteries—to collapse. This is why depressing emotions make us weak and work makes us tired. Rest is then required to recharge the brain batteries with energy derived from food, just as rest is required to recharge a motor battery with energy derived from coal, or water power, or chemicals.

We leave our motor batteries at the service station about twenty-four hours every few months to have them recharged, but we need to leave our brain batteries about eight hours out of every twenty-four in the station called "sleep" for the same purpose. After we have slept or rested we again have "juice" for another "run."

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

I have had a small lump in the region of my underarm for a year or more. Do you think I ought to have it cut out? MRS. F.

Consult a good surgeon without delay. All lumps in any locality where they are, should be examined by a surgeon as to the advisability of their removal. If taken in the beginning stages, such growths usually could be avoided.

Am 21 years of age and am troubled with feet and hands swelling. Could I do anything about this? C. M.

The symptoms which you describe call for some investigation. I would advise that you consult your family physician and have a thorough physical examination, having in mind that these symptoms may be an indication of some form of kidney disturbance.

Can you tell me the name and address of a good plastic surgeon?

A. B.

We do not give the name of surgeons in this column. The operation is usually performed often and with very good results.

Have had trouble with my ears for the past year. Can you advise me what to do? M. N. N.

If you have some permanent impairment of your hearing, I am afraid it is impossible to help you. I would suggest that you go to the Eye and Ear Infirmary, Charles street, Boston.

FINANCE
By B. C. Forbes

Here is the question merchants, manufacturers, importers and others concerned in commerce are asking: In view of improved conditions in Europe, and in view of the probable outcome of our Presidential election in less than two months, is it wise to keep stocks and supplies down to the lowest workable volume?

* * *

You hear on all sides, "No; I will wait until after election." The majority of people are hesitating to act at this stage. They keep on delaying and delaying, taking it for granted that they will be able to buy all they need immediately after the election, without having to wait for deliveries and without having to pay any increase in prices.

But are business men justified in this assumption?

In these not danger, should the election turn out satisfactory to business, that "manufacturers will be swamped with orders and that, in their haste to procure supplies, buyers will bid prices up?

Our important industries have been producing only half of normal, or even less, for months and months.

The country's stocks of cotton goods, for example, must be extremely light. Ever since the early part of this year, they simply refused to produce materials for which no orders were on hand. Therefore, it is to be assumed that there are no mountainous piles of iron and steel products stacked up in manufacturers' yards awaiting buyers.

The automobile industry has worked out of surplus products.

The rubber industry has followed a similar course.

In short, the policy of keeping down stocks to the lowest possible limit has been scrupulously followed in practically all lines of business and by all interests, from producers of raw materials to retailers.

* * *

The pessimism which ruled so long doubtless had its influence upon the rank and file of consumers, influencing them to keep down their expenditures to bare necessities.

But things have been happening lately, important things, and others are on the eve of happening.

For the first time in ten years, Europe is definite headed toward recovery. It is everywhere confidentially expected that American funds will be loaned to European borrowers before long on a very large scale, and this cannot but bring expansion in buying of American raw materials.

The presidential election will be over—and there is no fear of the choice of a President being thrown into the House is regarded only as a more or less unlikely possibility, not a probability.

One of Wall Street's soundest maxims is: "the time to buy stocks is when nobody wants them."

Nobody apparently wants to buy in ordinary stocks of merchandise today. Prices, consequently, are low in nearly all lines, and extremely low in many lines.

Is it not time for business men to ask themselves whether there may not be greater risk in not buying than in placing orders now?

$55,000,000 IS FREIGHT BILL OF GEN. MOTORS

By FRANK H. MELDON,
Financial Editor.

I am told that the railroads received $55,000,000 last year freight charges on General Motors cars and trucks and the material from which these automobiles were made.

This was not the whole amount the General Motors, which has 24 major manufacturing operations in thirty-eight cities and buys material from over 3,000 different concerns. Obviously it is impracticable to attempt to compile the freight paid by these sources of supply on each portion of their raw and semi-finished purchases as was absorbed by General Motors.

General Motors last year sold approximately 800,000 automobiles. Of this number approximately one-quarter were driven away from the plant, and the remainder shipped by railroads.

Last year reportable casualties on the Union Pacific amounted to 1.36 per 100 employes, compared with 1.22 per 100 employes in 1913.

Last year on the Southern Pacific at its remote shops at El Paso, Tex., employing about 2,000 men, there was but one single reportable accident in seven months. The company shops at Algiers, La., reported only three injuries in a period of six months.

According to figures compiled by the committee on statistics of the Safety Section of the National Safety Council, in this way Association, 2,500 employes were killed on the railroads in 1906. In 1923 this figure had been reduced to 1,866, in spite of an increase of approximately 46 per cent. in the number of employes.

The number of injuries in this same period, however, increased from 39,643 to 148,146. Many of these are regarded as being of minor importance. According to Carl Gray, president of Union Pacific, this only emphasizes the importance of safety work and safety campaigns. In addressing the Safety Section of the American Railway Association at its fourth annual meeting at Salt Lake city, he said:

"The foundation work of a safety organization is of paramount importance. The work will not flourish under haphazard or catch-as-catch-can methods.

"At the beginning some very definite ideas and aims must be shaped into a program and the officers and men must be fully advised of the endeavor as well as be impressed with its importance.

"Distinction is made between the officers and men for the reason that we recognize the fact that the employes, compared to the term as the men,' in a large degree follow the example set by their officers, and the degree of interest which will be displayed in the work by the men who are our real safety evangelists will be determined by the interest which is evinced by their officers."

Millions Lost Yearly as Result of Stock and Credit Frauds

By MARTIN KORTJOHN, C. P. A.

The recent hold-ups and burglaries are far from being the only, or the most important, crimes committed against property. There are other crimes which are not so spectacular, which do not come to the vivid notice of the reading public, and which are not indicated by the presence of armed guards and armored cars, but which are nevertheless a grave menace to the public, especially to the business world.

It has been estimated by surety and fidelity companies that not less than a billion and a half dollars are annually lost through stock frauds, forgeries, embezzlements and credit frauds. Much of this amount could be saved to the investing or business public if the statements of interested parties were largely discounted and if disinterested reports of professional investigators or auditors.

Employes whose intentions are honorable and concerns with merit always welcome such investigations in order to show their reliability. Where concerns or employes strenuously oppose them there is at least an inference that something is not exactly right.

"GAS" SUPPLY FALLING OFF

Stocks of gasoline are dropping rapidly to the 1,000,000,000-gallon level, which represents about forty days' supply at the July rate of consumption, according to estimates made by oil experts.

Consumption and exports of gasoline during July totalled 613,400,000 gallons. Stocks at the close of May amounted to 1,649,953,000 gallons, the peak figure, and by the end of July they had dwindled to 1,466,500,000 gallons. Consumption in July exceeded that of June, and the rate of increase recorded in July has continued through August and thus far in September.

At the current rate of increase in consumption, oil experts predict, stocks of gasoline as of September 15 will show a decline of 500,000,000 gallons from the peak figure and that on that day will be a point under the 1,000,000,000-gallon level.

UNION BAG & PAPER DIVIDEND IS PASSSED

Union Bag & Paper directors passed quarterly dividend of $1.50 on capital stock due at this time. Dividend rate has been 4 per cent. annually since beginning of 1923, while 4½ per cent. was paid in 1922 and 8 per cent. in 1921.

WOOLEN FALLS TO PREVIOUS LOW MARK

American woolen fell to its previous low, established on the recent bad break, in forenoon trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Sharp breaks in the securities of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company followed publication of unconfirmed rumors that the road would readjust its financial structure to meet bond maturities of $40,000,000 next year.

Publication which set in Tuesday increased despite official denial that a reorganization was contemplated and that there was any need for immediate action on the road's refunding operations.

Both common and preferred stocks dropped more than 2 points to new 1924 low records, the preferred selling more than 5 points below yesterday's high. The road's active bonds broke 1 to 4 points, the convertible 5s suffering the heaviest loss.

Further irregularity developed as trading progressed in reflection of an extensive readjustment of speculative accounts. Failure of operators on the bear side to follow up the advance resulting from the outburst of buying inspired by the Maine election result, led to considerable profit taking by traders who had bought stock for a turn.

Gains of 1 to 1½ points in National and Lone Wiles Biscuit, Atlantic Coast Line, Air Reduction, American Water Works, General Baking and Beech Nut Packing were offset by losses of a point or more in May Department Stores, U. S. Alcohol, Coca Cola, American Woolen, Pressed Steel Car and Hartman Corporation.

Utah Securities advanced fractionally to a new peak price at 36½. The unfilled tonnage of United States Steel Corporation on August 31, 1924, was 3,289,577 tons, increase of 107,506 tons compared with that of July 31, 1924.

Edison Electric gained 1½ points to 183½ and then reacted to 180, thereby furnishing the only noteworthy price-making during the initial operations in Boston. The list ruled steady in firm in dribbling small-lot sales. Amoskeag at 89 was off 4.

J. P. Morgan Ready to Renew French Credit

J. P. MORGAN & CO. are ready to renew the private credit of $100,000,000 to the French Government at any time it is desired, according to dispatches from Paris.

The $100,000,000 credit was advanced about six months ago and officially expires September 12. It was made at a time when the franc was demoralized by professional sales. The mere fact that the French Government had arranged such a credit brought support which rallied the French currency to its existing level.

It is understood that the French Government only used $40,000,000 of the credit available in stopping the decline of the franc.

BOSTON AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

The "star" of next week's pageant will be the New England workman, one of the most important assets of these Six States. His handiwork will be exhibited in show windows everywhere.

New England produces two apples that will play a conspicuous part in the observance of New England Week, the famous Baldwin and the luscious McIntosh Red. Wonderful crop, this year! Get acquainted!

Minute Men Setting Mammoth Stage for New England's Great Pageant of Industry

AFTER WEEKS AND MONTHS of careful preparation, the management is prepared to announce, for one week only, the greatest spectacle ever presented in America.

A pageant of industry!

With a cast of 7,000,000 people; on a stage measuring more than 60,000 square miles; with accessories worth not less than $8,000,000,000, and in a setting the value of which is beyond imagination.

New England Week!

The time, from next Monday to the following Saturday, both days inclusive; the place, everywhere in New England.

Nothing quite so big in the way of American pageantry has been attempted since Indiana, in 1916, celebrated at each of her 92 county seats the centennial of her statehood and 564,252 school children gave life to the stirring episodes of State and local history.

In our New England pageant there is to be no chorus; no grouping of "citizens, soldiers and villagers." Everyone is to be a member of the cast. Each has his part. YOU are to be yourself.

Minute Men will find the stage set and the curtains up when they come down town next Monday morning and begin to look about them. Every window on both sides of Main street, in your community as in every other community in these six States, will be filled with the products of New England. Other Minute Men will have done the work.

"Made in Lewiston, Maine"; "made in Nashua, N. H."; "made in Worcester, Mass."; "made in St. Johnsbury, Vt."; "made in Westerly, R. I."; so will read the show cards.

Confectionery, boots and shoes, cotton goods, cutlery, machine shop products, furniture, hosiery, jewelry, leather goods, millinery, musical instruments, a thousand and one other things, ALL "made in New England."

The number of these products, their wide variety, their uniform excellence will surprise, startle, thrill you. You will be prouder than ever of our New England. And you will recall the slogan that has been printed and repeated so many times in the past few weeks, "To know New England products is to want New England products."

What is the history of New England Week? How has it come about? What is its significance?

Several months ago a Bostonian interested in one of the mills of New England, the product of which is nationally known, visited the town in which the factories are situated and, having an hour or two at his disposal, thought to while away the time by learning how many of the local merchants carried the product for which the community is famous.

The result of his investigation surprised, shocked, grieved, angered him.

Not a single merchant in the place carried Blank's Hosiery!

You can buy this excellent hosiery at the big stores in Boston, in the department stores of Providence, Portland, Manchester, Burlington and Springfield, but, eight months ago, the product was not to be found in the shops of its home town.

The merchants said there was "no call for them." The people who made them did not wear them.

Our friend from Boston remained in town a day or two to carry his inquiry further. The business at the time was in the doldrums; he thought he could see one of the reasons for it.

A personal talk with every man holding a supervisory position with the mills developed the further fact that not one of them, superintendents, overseers, second-hands, section-hands, was wearing the company's product.

When this condition of affairs was brought to light a hurried meeting of the personnel was called and there followed a series of illuminating heart-to-heart talks. The men occupying the mill's better positions did not wear its product because it was not to be had in the home-town shops. They never had thought to ask the merchants why, and they never had discussed this peculiar condition of affairs one with another.

Not to devote too much space to this one instance of indifference to a local product, it need only be said that within the month every merchant in that town was making a feature of Blank's Hosiery, and every foreman in the mills was wearing its product. An important result of this transformation is that the mill has been turning out fewer "seconds." One inference is that, being now personally interested in the product, the supervisors are keeping a sharper lookout on manufacture.

Further investigation showed that this instance of the hosiery mill, its officers and the local tradesmen, was by no means isolated. Along the length of Essex street, in Lawrence, no shop at that time made any special showing of the product of the Lawrence mills. In Brockton there was no emphasis on Brockton shoes. One Brockton dealer made a specialty of shoes made in New York. Only one Brockton merchant advised the passerby that New England makes the "best shoes in the world."

It was a time of general business depression and a group of loyal New Englanders, distressed by the way in which New England appeared to be drifting, determined that a week must be set aside during which New England should be invited to sample New England merchandise in comparison with things produced elsewhere.

"If we will not use our own products, how can we expect others to use them? How can we expect the people of the South or the West to use New England products which New England turns down? If we will not use and enjoy and show our preference for goods made in New England by our friends and associates, or by fellow New Englanders whom we like to see employed, how can we expect others to call for them?"

Management, Labor and Capital united to put these questions to New England, manufacturers, jobbers, wholesalers and retailers enlisted with them in the work of education, and New England Week and its pageant will be the result.

It was a woman member of the New England Week committee who asked the question which has led to a proper marking and identification of everything you will see exhibited during New England Week.

"Everything being equal as to price and quality," this lady said, "of course we want to buy things made in New England.

"But how are we going to be able to pick out the things that ARE made in New England? How are we going to know them? Who is going to tell us?"

The suggestion has been made that New England manufacturers adopt a "Made-in-New-England" stamp. A better method, perhaps, might be to use simply the name of the city or town, with the name of its State. This would convey the needful message to New England, and at the same time not be objectionable to buyers in other parts of the country.

New England industry has been in a bad way. Evidence has accumulated lately, however, that things are looking upwards again. But, in good times and bad, it will be helpful to remember that when we buy something made a thousand miles away we are sending money out of New England to fill a pay envelope in some distant part of the country, if not out of the United States.

And if WE are having our troubles, if trade and industry ARE a trifle sluggish, let us remember that these difficulties are not to be compared with those which confronted the earlier New Englander and which, with faith and courage, HE surmounted time and time again.

EVERY attempt of our forefathers to better their condition was interfered with.

Trade and manufacture, the historian reminds us, were strangled at their birth.

"If an attempt to build a ship was made by the colonists, the shipwrights of the River Thames petitioned the Lord's Commissioners to stop it, as it menaced their trade.

"If they attempted to use their wool in making cloth, the cloth staplers at once raised their voices in protest. New England was well situated to enlarge this industry, but English trade might suffer, and so an act was passed prohibiting the exportation of woolens, even in trade between the colonies themselves, and a promising enterprise was effectually destroyed.

"The greatest energy, the keenest foresight, the strictest economy were constantly demanded, and these became, to them and their successors, a second nature.

"This accounts for New England push and thrift which have characterized the New Englander of the past and equally characterize him today."

OUR pageant, opening next Monday, will be staged without horses, riders, floats, tableaux, vehicles or footmen.

It will be neither fiction nor allegory.

Except at the Monday evening mass meeting, at which the Governors of the six States are expected to be present, we probably shall not see even the officers of the New England Week committee.

But we can all give a thought to the men and women who were here before us and who made THIS New England possible.

If we have only a small part of the energy, the foresight, the push and the thrift which were among their distinguishing characteristics we shall surmount our minor difficulties with little trouble.

The demand is for more co-operation, more of the spirit of get-together.

If the counting-room believes there should be more lifting in the factory, the factory holds as resolutely that there must be more thinking in the counting-room and more purposeful thinking.

Both may be right. Each suggestion may be worthy of serious consideration.

For the rest of us, as we take part in the pageant of New England industry, now as players and again as spectators, the call is for more of the spirit of the booster.

Let us see and enjoy New England Week, and let us continue to be boosters for New England long after the Week has become history.

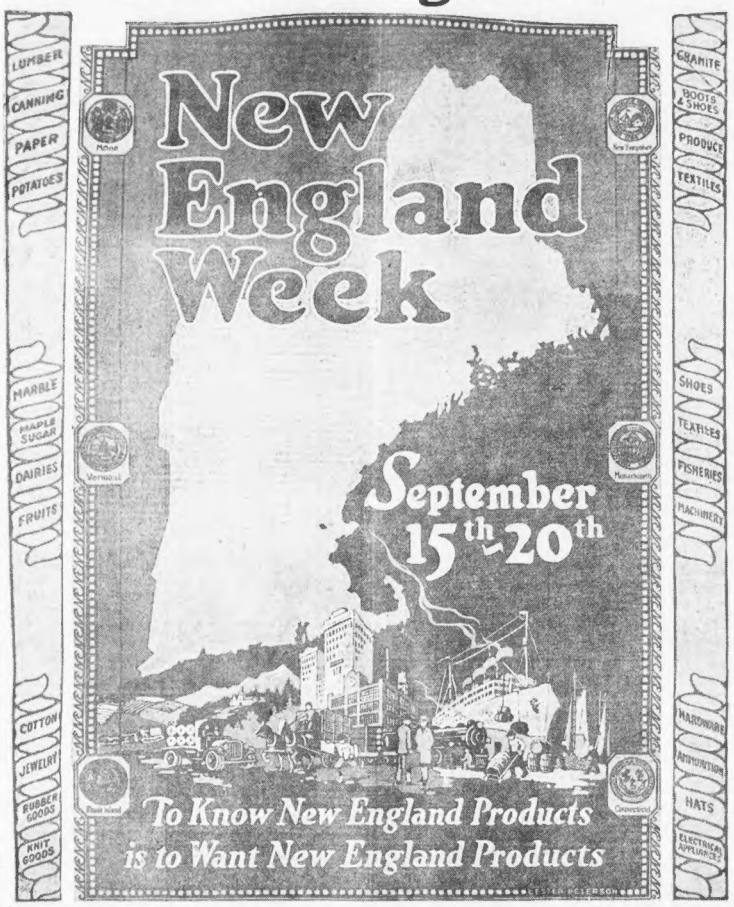
"All up for Paw Paw Springs!" we hear the man from out there yell, and WE smile.

DON'T smile—borrow some of the Westerner's spirit, and thank him for it.

"Think, talk and live Fall River!" "Prove your love for Lowell!" "Work for Worcester!"

THERE'S the proper spirit, and

ALL UP FOR NEW ENGLAND WEEK!



NEW ENGLAND!

"When we go back to the beginnings of New England and read in Bradford's Journal how he and his little company landed 'in a hideous & desolate wilderness, full of wild beasts & wild men,' with 'little solace or content in respecte of any outward objects,' with 'no friends to wellcome them, nor inns to entertaine or refresh their weather beaten bodys, no houses or much less townes to repaire too, to seek for succoure' and compare the scene which he thus summons before our mental vision with what our eyes behold today in New England—her splendid cities, the abode of wealth and learning; her magnificent churches, schools and colleges; her busy factories and workshops; her waterways, coursed by unnumbered keels; her many railroads, binding together in a common interest city, village and hamlet; we may well pardon the New Englander if he entertains a reasonable degree of pride in the growth and prosperity of the land of his forefathers, the Pilgrim and the Puritan.

"It has been said by some effeminate souls, to whom her brusque and stimulating climate is an offence, that New England is a good country from which to emigrate, but such men are unable to appreciate her true worth. They who are capable of understanding and appreciating her believe her to be THE LAND OF LANDS IN WHICH TO LIVE AND TO DIE."

"New England," by James Phinney Baxter.
